A Troubled World
Two Instructive Maps
Striking Against Edison
Wall St.'s Problem

—By [illegible] Brisbane—

TROUBLES ALL OVER the world. In Spain, students burn a picture of the King, and Berenguer, prime minister, closes the University of Barcelona.

Before burning the picture, the students cut out the head, mounted it on a pole and paraded the streets with it.

That is a mild, but unpleasantly close imitation of French revolutionists. They cut off the head of a public official that advised peasants to eat grass if they had no bread. The mob stuffed the dead mouth with grass, put the head on the end of a pole, and paraded with it.

Two maps, recently published, will be studied by future historians. One shows locations of all speakeasies in the national capital. Innumerable black specks, each indicating a bootleg resort, make the map look like the face of a child with chicken pox.

The other map shows South America, its revolutionary sections heavily shaded. A few small white spots show smaller states, Chili, Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador, Paraguay and Uruguay still peaceful.

This country may congratulate itself on the fact that if it hadn't lost its nerve, after a destructive stock gambling fever, it would have little worry.

It has no revolutionary tendencies that cannot be taken care of by the police, and, more important, it has no "dole," such as in England, destroying desire to work in millions of men, putting idleness on a national subsidy basis.

A strike in the Edison factory at Orange, N. J., was necessary, perhaps, if it be a fact that wages were reduced.

But any workman knowing what Edison has done for workers, must find it hard to call a strike against him.

Thanks to Edison, millions are at work all over the world, at good wages, and millions live in comfort unknown before Edison's work began.

However, he is 83 years old, a philosopher. And knows that the one thing NOT to be expected is gratitude.

In Berlin, the Hitlerites, imitation Fascists called "Nazi," continue rioting and attacks on the shops and persons of Jews.

These "Nazi" represent the second most powerful party in the Reichstag, but this has not prevented the Berlin police from using their clubs on the rioters.

Wall Street seems unable to make up its mind about moving up or down.

Yesterday, in the morning, it moved down. In the afternoon it moved up.

There are stocks for sale that will go lower, because they are two parts hydrogen, one part oxygen.

Other stocks will go far above the highest prices at which they have ever sold, because they are worth the money.

And many are selling good stocks at ridiculously low prices in order to hold bad stocks.

Mr. Pabst, one of the able brewers that formerly "made Milwaukee famous," has just spent a million dollars equipping one of his plants to make real beer, in anticipation of a change in the prohibition law.

This may be premature.

Any prohibition compromise will probably ignore the law, letting the public drink as much as it pleases of vile whiskey and badly made beer.

Beer properly made would be better and would add hundreds of millions a year to government revenues, whereas "bootleg" gives billions a year to bootleggers.

In New York State, Governor Roosevelt wisely closes public forests at the beginning of the annual deer hunting season. The forests, following long drouth, would inevitably be set on fire in a hundred places, if sportsmen, with their rifles and matches, were admitted.

It is sad to be thwarted just as you are ready to kill a deer. But hunters may find comfort in the fact that there will be more deer to kill, next year.

Governor Larson, of New Jersey, predicts steadily increasing prosperity for his state, now celebrating "Prosperity Week." The governor relies on "the advantageous position of New Jersey," which could not be greatly improved.

Of late years, and, especially, under Governor Larson's management, New Jersey has DESERVED prosperity, by energy, displayed in the building of good roads.

Not even California has done better than New Jersey in that direction, of late. New York State is far behind.

KIRBY OPERATED ON AFTER GO

Chicago, Oct. 15—Tom Kirby, heavyweight boxer of Boston, was operated on by Dr. Sloan today for appendicitis at the West Side Hospital.

Kirby, who fought here last night, was counted out in the second round of the semi-final bout with King Levinsky, heavyweight. Before going into the ring Kirby complained of severe pains on his right side, but started to box.

In the second round he went down on the canvas. The referee counted him out and so the bout ended with Levinsky getting a knockout verdict.

Throughout the night and early today Kirby still suffered. Doctors at the West Side Hospital took an X-ray and found he was suffering from acute appendicitis.

Los Angeles Pays Tribute to the Publisher's Stand for Free Press

Los Angeles, Oct. 15 (US)—Last night it was the turn of Los Angeles to honor William Randolph Hearst for maintaining a free and enterprising press.

The community's expression on this score was remarkably conveyed at the great testimonial banquet to the publisher in the Sala de Oro of the Biltmore Hotel.

The wave of sentiment on account of the "French episode," which has become a national American theme, was found last night to have suffered no lessening in its progress West.

Los Angeles has said, along with Boston, New York and Chicago, that Mr. Hearst did a fearless, salutary thing in publishing the proposed secret Anglo-French naval treaty.

The banquet hall, crowded to the doors and to the last limits of the balconies with men and women, whose names are synonymous with achievement in the community, rang with applause, cheers and cries of approval as distinguished speakers paid their tribute to the publisher.

Mr. Hearst's introduction by Oscar Lawler, celebrated California attorney, acting as toastmaster, brought the more than 1500 banqueters to their feet in a spontaneous welcome.

TWO-DAY RECEPTION

On both sides of San Francisco Bay today official committees were putting the finishing touches to plans for two days of civic celebration in honor of Mr. Hearst.

In San Francisco tomorrow, and in Oakland and in the East Bay cities on Friday, the publisher will be the recipient of greetings from officials, business and financial leaders, representatives of organized labor and veterans and fraternal organizations.

Two radio networks will broadcast the San Francisco receptions.

Marshal Hale, president of the association, will preside at the luncheon, and a notable list of speakers has been announced.

In Oakland City Hall, Mayor John L. Davie, honorary president

TELLS HOW PAGE & SHAW STOCK WAS SOLD

Jacob Stanton, former salesman of Page & Shaw stock, who pleaded guilty to conspiracy last week, testified today against 13 other defendants in Superior Court at East Cambridge and bared the alleged "inside story" of what the government declares was a "$2,000,000 bubble."

Stanton, who lives on Fuller st., Brookline, asserted he was instructed by Isaac Hart, one of the defendants to "go out and get the money—no matter how you get it."

"You can't sell stock with a Bible under your arm," he said he was also told by Hart.

Stanton denied under cross-examination that Hart had advised him not to lie.

He testified that he never heard Hart say: "Don't lie about the stock, the name will sell it."

He said at the time he sold the stock he believed it a good, substantial security.

When word of a sale reached the office of Hart and Joseph Pollay, for whom he said he was working, the remark was always made, according to Stanton:

"Well, one more 'mooch' gone."

"BIG PROPOSITION"

Hart, the witness said, remarked that he was "framing the biggest proposition in the world," when he first introduced the subject of marketing the stock of the famous candy company.

Stanton said he sold $9000 to $10,000 worth of the stock, sending back to the Boston office from the scene of his operations in Connecticut the cash, checks, stocks and bonds that he received from the purchasers in payment for the Page & Shaw shares.

Every Saturday the salesmen went to the Boston office, he declared, and were given names by Hart from what was called the "mooch list." If stock was sold to one of these, the salesman got 10 per cent, he said. If the salesman found a customer of his own initiative, the commission was 15 per cent.

Stanton told of overhearing a conversation at the office of [illegible] Fr. Levesque, a Marlboro priest, had given $15,000 "to Stanton." He said he took this up with Hart who asked him why he was bothering about it.

"I haven't registered to sell

Boston Hospitals to Get Seized Liquors

More than 10,000 gallons of good liquor in possession of the Boston police for the last eight years and a "white elephant" on the department's hands, will be disposed of to Boston hospitals within the next 60 days, it was learned today. Permission to distribute the liquor was obtained through intercession of Mayor Curley with federal prohibition authorities in Washington.

26 Chinese Pay $5 Fines for Gambling

Twenty-six Chinese, arrested by the police in a raid on an alleged gambling place at 195 Harrison ave. last night, faced Judge Francis Goode in Municipal Court this afternoon charged with gambling and being present where gaming implements were in evidence. They pleaded guilty through an interpreter and each paid a fine of $5.

Storm Routs Tenants; Traffic Crippled

Sweeping in from sea on a northeast gale, a record rainfall today crippled rail, water and air transportation, stalled vehicular traffic and caused heavy damage to crops and stores.

Forest fires and threatened drouth were ended by the downpour.

Fallen leaves on the roads and reports of consequent accidents brought a warning to motorists from Governor Allen's committee on highway safety. Radio stations were asked to supplement a warning by the State House radio.

The heaviest damage was in Cambridge where 21 persons, including 18 children, were driven from their homes when the roof of their house failed to hold the deluge of water that settled there.

The three apartments on the end of a 15-family block in Columbia ter., were flooded, sending a six-year-old boy to Cambridge City hospital, threatened with pneumonia. He is Arthur [illegible] Jr., who lived in the middle floor.

BUILDING CONDEMNED

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thibodeau, Mary 13, Mildred 10, Kathleen 7, Claire 3 and Marilyn 2 were also forced to leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Sharpe, occupants of the top floor, took their six children to neighbors in the fear that the roof would collapse, and Mrs. Sharpe was taken to the home of her mother, 176 Columbia st., when she collapsed. The children are Robert 7, Mary 6, Margaret 4, Frank and Edward, 3-year-old twins, and Elizabeth, 6 months.

Inspector William Walsh of the Cambridge Board of Health pronounced the section of the building a hazard to health and ordered all the families to find other quarters.

That the roof did not collapse was inexplicable, he said.

Its weight spread the seams and the water rushed through the walls and partitions even to the cellar.

The weather bureau recorded a precipitation near the three-inch mark with no signs of abatement up to nightfall.

Along the waterfront it was lashed by the wind and apprehension was felt for the high tide due late in the day.

The fall of rain was three times the total rainfall for the entire month of September, and the second recording of rain in October.

BOAT RACE IS CALLED OFF

Gloucester, Oct. 15 (AP)—The second race between the Gloucester fishing schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud and the Nova Scotia fisherman Bluenose was called off today after the two boats had nearly completed the first half of the course.

Thick weather, which made it difficult for them to find the markers, caused the postponement.

The Bluenose was leading by about two miles at the 18-mile mark, but experienced difficulty in finding the marker, and while it was still searching the Thebaud caught up with her.

A squall, driven by a 30-mile east wind, swept the sea. During much of the race the boats were hidden by the smother of rain and spume, and those on the Conyngham, the Coast Guard destroyer which served as a committee and press boat, were unable to keep track of them.

CAR PLUNGES INTO FENCE TO YARD 40 FT. BELOW

Spouse of World Famous Arnold Arborteum Curator at Wheel in Worcester

Worcester, Oct. 15 (AP)—Ernest H. Wilson of 350 [illegible] st., Jamaica Plain, curator of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University, and his wife were killed this afternoon when their automobile, which she was driving, crashed through a fence and dropped 40 feet into the mill yard of the Duffy Woolen Mill in Cherry Valley.

Mrs. Wilson was killed instantly. Wilson died at City Hospital.

Prof. Wilson, a native of England, was one of the world's foremost horticulturists, and Park Commissioner William P. Long said today that his ability was such that "no man can fill his place."

He has been awarded medals from foreign governments for his writings and has hunted the world over for specimens for the Arnold Arboretum.

The curator was 54 years last February. He was married in England in 1902 and came to this country four years later, soon afterward being made assistant director of the Arboretum.

His travels in China, Japan, India and South Africa, from which places he brought rare specimens to Boston, did more than anything else, according to those associated with him, in making the arboretum "the world's greatest garden."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left Boston last Friday to visit their daughter and only child, Muriel, in New York City, and were probably returning when the accident occurred.

TUMULT OF CHEERS GREETS HEARST AT LOS ANGELES BANQUET

1500 ATTEND BRILLIANT RECEPTION

of the committee, will deliver the welcome on behalf of the city.

At 7 p. m. Mr. Hearst will be the guest of honor at a public dinner at the Hotel Oakland, where he will be presented with an illuminated scroll conveying the city's greetings in a permanent form.

From the opening sentence of the noted publisher at last night's banquet—

"My Friends, I think we must be careful not to exaggerate the importance of the incident of my exclusion from France"—

Until he had ended his address the attention, except for frequent applause or laughter, was as concentrated and quiet as the greeting had been clamorous.

STIRRING SPEECH

The great audience followed him closely and appreciatively in his analysis of the French system and viewpoint. In contrast, he drew a picture of America, the land of liberty, and ended with this stirring exhortation:

"Fellow Americans, let us hold our love and loyalty for this new land of our fathers, for this new ideal.

"Let us confine our personal interests, our political activity, to our own America.

"Let us retai the fredom, the independence, our fathers strove for.

"Let us not turn backwards to mingle in the affairs of Europe to become a part of the intolerable conditions our fathers labored so hard to avoid and endured so much to free us from.

"This land of liberty and humanity is our field of action and opportunity, and the best service we can render the world is to show the hating, warring races of Europe that these same races here in America, in the light of liberty and under the glorious flag of freedom, can live enternally in peace and happiness and brotherly love."

It was minutes before Mr. Hearst, holding up his hand for silence, was able to make himself heard. To an audience, as quiet in its attentiveness as it had been noisy in its greeting, the publisher responded to the thought of Mr. Lawler with regard to the secret treaty.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY

He was especially impressed, he said, with the quick American understanding he was encountering here of the value of publicity upon international affairs, particularly as they affect the United States.

In his address Lawler said:

"Recently, while Europe was professing sympathy with the efforts of our country to reduce armaments, two of the nations were entering into agreements utterly inconsistent with those professions.

"An American citizen exposed to his countrymen and to the world the inconsistency referred to, and thus incurred the displeasure of one of the parties to that enterprise. That one of the governments concerned should not have been pleased with this exposure serves to accentuate the appreciation of his countrymen for his services to them.

"We are here in evidence of that appreciation and to commend for that service our guest, William Randolph Hearst."

TRIBUTE OF VETS

Another note, equally popular, was sounded by Antonio Entenza, past national commander of the United Spanish War Veterans. Representing a great body of former soldiers, whose resolutions commending publication of the secret treaty plan were adopted shortly after Mr. Hearst's arrival from France, Mr. Entenza reaffirmed that loyalty in sentences of burning eloquence which were interrupted time and again with stormy outbursts of applause. He said:

"There is not a veteran or an earnest citizen in America who does not feel that William Randolph Hearst has accomplished the one thing that was so necessary to stir the American people as a nation, and to cause them to rally together and proclaim the patriotism, love of country and unity of sentiment that we so need to express in this hour of economic uncertainty.

"The splendor of this man, his magnificent deportment since the recent French order of exclusion, will cause him to live forever in the hearts of the people of this country as one of the outstanding characters in its national life.

"To this man, as a national figure, who is great today, but will be even greater tomorrow, I, as past national commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans and a participant in the World War, and speaking for the living veterans of all wars, render homage and consider the privilege of greeting William Randolph Hearst, tonight, the honor of my life."

The marvelous singing of Lawrence Tibbett, California's own operatic star, and of Miss Grace Moore of the Metropolitan Opera Company contributed to the brilliance of the event.

Mr. Hearst Warns of Peril Facing World as Result of Bitter Hatreds in Europe

Los Angeles, Oct. 15—Following is the address of William Randolph Hearst, delivered at the civic banquet in his honor last night at the Biltmore:

My Friends—I think we must be careful not to exaggerate the importance of the incident of my exclusion from France.

The incident is of no interest to me, and can be of no interest to you, except in so far as it indicates France's attitude towards America and Americans.

That attitude is illustrated in a thousand other ways, such, for instance, as the placing of the American automobiles in the Paris automobile shows down in the cellar where only the rats could see them.

As a result, the American automobile companies had to take the American cars out of the French show altogether and have a show of their own elsewhere.

And as the American cars were the best cars, the American show was the best show.

France resents America for two very human reasons: First, because of the service we rendered her, which she does not like to acknowledge; and, second, because of the money we loaned her, which she does not like to repay.

France has the largest gold supply per capita of any nation in the world, but she does not want to use any part of it in paying her debts to America; in fact, she does not like even to have that obligation called to her attention.

The situation reminds me of the gambler who came home to his wife in great indignation and said that he had been accused of cheating at cards.

His wife said: "But you do cheat at cards, don't you, dear?" And the gambler replied: "Yes, of course I do, but I don't like to have anybody speak about it."

The immediate trouble with France, however, is mainly over-egotism—what we would call in this country a swelled head.

France likes to think that she won the late war all alone, while the truth is the victory was secured for her very largely by the Americans and the English.

France likes to think that she endured all the suffering and death in the war, while the truth is that the fields of France are saturated with American and English blood.

France loves to believe that she bore the whole burden of financial sacrifice during the war, while the truth is that the money to maintain the American and English armies was spent in France; and the money to maintain the French armies was loaned to France with small hope of it ever being returned.

Yet, in fairness to France, and in the interest of our relations with her, it must be said that her attitude of arrogance is not directed at America alone.

As a matter of fact, France dislikes England quite as much as she dislikes America.

Furthermore, France detests Italy, despises Russia, and abominates Germany, Austria and Hungary.

These nations on their part reciprocate France's cordial sentiments of detestation with all the sincerity and enthusiasm born of centuries of hatreds and hostilities.

France is arrogant and insolent, greedy and aggressive, unjust and oppressive.

France holds Europe in the iron grip of her war machine. But there is little in the history of the past, or in the conditions of the present, or the probabilities of the future, to make us believe that any other European nation with France's military power and wealth of plunder would not act substantially in the same way.

The conditions abroad which we deplore are not merely characteristically French. They are characteristically European.

The whole record of European relations is a history of hate, a blotted page of battle and bloodshed, of cruelty and tyranny.

Our fathers left Europe because they wanted to get away from wars and hatreds and persecutions, from intolerance and bigotry, from injustice and tyranny.

They wanted a new life in a new land.

They wanted freedom from political and intellectual servitude.

They wanted the right to speak and act and think and live as their conscience dictated.

They wanted freedom of assembly. They wanted freedom of the press, because they realized that on that liberty and on that vigilant publicity all their other rights and liberties depend.

They wanted a chance to develop a practical political application of the Christian principle of the brotherhood of man.

They wanted to build a nation based on brotherly love, and extending liberty, equality and opportunity to all mankind.

They wanted peace, they wanted progress, they wanted civilization.

They left Europe and came to this new land to secure these rights, these liberties, these opportunities.

Fellow Americans, let us hold our love and loyalty for this new land of our fathers, for this new ideal.

Let us confine our personal interest, our political activity, to our own America.

Let us retain the freedom, the independence our fathers strove for.

Let us not turn backwards to mingle in the affairs of Europe, to become a part of the intolerable conditions our fathers labored so hard to avoid and endured so much to free us from.

This land of liberty and humanity is our field of action and opportunity, and the best service we can render the world is to show the hating, warring races of Europe that these same races here in America, in the light of liberty and under the glorious flag of freedom, can live eternally in peace and happiness and brotherly love.

126,000 STRIKE BERLIN FACES NEW CRISIS

Reichstag in Wild Storm Over Election of President; Fascists Demand the Right to Arm

Berlin, Oct. 15 (AP)—When the Reichstag convened at 3 p. m. for the election of a president, 107 Fascist members, appearing in business suits, took a militant attitude by joining in a demonstration against President Loebe on the ground that he was opposed to bearing arms.

However, the Reichstag finally chose Dr. Paul Loebe, Socialist, to succeed himself as president, and elected the National Socialist, Franz Stoehr, as first vice-president.

Only a few hours previously 126,000 Berlin metal workers, members of the largest trade union group in the world, laid down their tools in protest at government arbitrator's award of a reduction in their wages.

The reduction was of eight per cent. for workers of above 18 years of age, and of six per cent. for those below that age.

The strike creates a new and menacing snarl in the German economic and political tangle. No one ventures to predict what it may mean to the nation's economic situation, since the metal industry affects so many other branches of industry, nor has it been forecast how it may affect politics, in view of the metal workers being among the staunchest of Republicans.

The Fascists and Nationalists joined in a stormy Reichstag demonstration which was precipitated by the national socialist Thuringian premier, Wilhelm Frick, who made a strong denunciation of the Reichstag president.

The belligerence of the Hitlerites showed that while they had left their war paint at home they were none the less ready to plunge into any controversy against the government.

VETS HONOR MR. HEARST

Universal Service

Los Angeles, Oct. 15—One of the most colorful incidents at the reception and dinner last night for William Randolph Hearst was the presentation of a floral wreath by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The ceremonies took place in the foyer of the Sala De Oro just before Mr. Hearst went to the banquet.

In full regulation uniforms of the various branches of the service, and accompanied by a color guard, the veterans ranged themselves about a huge Maltese cross, the emblem of their organization.

Across it's field of multi-hued blooms was a silken ribbon, embossed with letters of gold, reading:

"To W. R. Hearst, from James B. Gresham Post No. 8, Veterans of Foreign Wars."

The presentation speech was made by Sergt. Daniel J. Cremens of the U. S. Army.

"Mr Hearst," he said, "I have had the honor of presenting an emblem similar to this to President Hoover and to Gen. Charles P. Summerall, commander-in-chief of the Army.

"It is with great pleasure that I now present this to you, one of the leading citizens of the United States.

"We welcome this opportunity to express our admiration for the manner in which you handled the situation with our former ally."

"I always appreciate anything from the veterans," Mr. Hearst told them, "for I have a deep respect and a real affection for the men who have done so much for their country and the other countries who were our allies."

stocks in Massachusetts and I don't want to get into trouble," Stanton said he told Hart.

Hart, he said, told him to ask Finn (another defendant) about it and later said the money had been returned to Father Levesque.

Stanton said he worked for Hart and Joseph Pollay, who is also a defendant.

The witness testified he had known Hart for 10 or 12 years and Joseph Pollay seven or eight years. He told of knowing Philip Pollay, another of the defendants, also for about seven or eight years.

He said he worked for Hart and Joseph Pollay "off and on," and in September, 1929, went to work for them selling stock in the Holland Far East Company.

"In September," he testified, "I heard Hart and Pollay discussing a prospective new stock issue.

"Hart said he was framing the biggest proposition in the world in connection with an old established company. Hart said this company had always paid good dividends and preferred stock was being retired at 120 a share.

"Joseph Pollay and several salesmen were present at this conversation, but the name of the company was not mentioned until another conference the last week of September, when Hart said it was the Page & Shaw Co.

"We were given literature and a kit and told to 'go out and get the money.' Hart said, 'We're in back of you 100 per cent. Go out and get the money, no matter how you get it.'"

11 REDS GIVEN JAIL TERMS IN RIOTING

Four Women and Seven Men Are Sentenced by Judge Good; Three Fined

Four women and seven men arrested in the Communist group that battled police during a demonstration against the American Federation of Labor yesterday, were sentenced to jail from municipal court today.

Of the remaining four arrested, one woman and two men were fined and the case of one man was continued.

The maximum jail sentence were four months, received by two women and two men. The minimum was a month. Charges against Red rioters varied and all appealed the sentences imposed by Judge Francis Good.

COURT WARNS LAWYER

After attempting unsuccessfully to have their trials continued, a group of 14 before Judge Good admitted a finding of guilty through their attorney, Harry Hoffman.

Hoffman remarked they would be found guilty, anyway, but upon Judge Good's demand to know whether he meant what he said, he replied:

"I do not mean it in the way you imagine I do. I have my own idea concerning this affair."

He apologized at length for any inference his remark might have contained after court pinned him down to his exact meaning.

Capt. Jeremiah Gallivan of Station 4 testified he was beaten, kicked, scratched and bitten by women during the melee. The women declared they were brutally assaulted by the police.

WOMEN GET TERMS

Annie Frimand was given three months for rescuing a prisoner and one month for assault and battery on Patrolman James E. Cusick. Aldie Waldman was sentenced to a month for assault and battery on Capt. Gallivan.

Mary Page was given three months for rescuing a prisoner and a month additional for assault on Patrolman Cusick.

Cecil Gamble was sentenced to a month for assaulting the same patrolman.

Oliver Conel was given three months for rescuing a prisoner; George Kushner four months for assault on Capt. Gallivan; Gosta Anderson one month for assult on the captain; Philip Barrett three months for rescuing a prisoner; Walter Conick three months for rescuing a prisoner; Merdich Jalladin four months on the same charge; Charles Damond three months on the same.

THEFT OF STICK CHARGED

Rudolph Glines was fined $60 for not parking as directed and obstructing a highway; Mark Lieberman $50 for displaying a placard; Rose Marris $20 on the same charge. The case of Paul Prane, charged with larceny of Capt. Gallivan's stick and heard in another session was continued a week.

Bail was set at from $50 to $500 and all were remanded to city prison until it was forthcoming.

.03 of an inch dropping two weeks ago.

More than 400 inbound autoists were stalled at Forest Hills and Arborway, when the section under the Elevated structure was flooded.

Aviation activities at Boston airport, Dennison airport, Atlantic, and Muller field, Revere, were at a standstill.

Southern artery was blocked in several low spots from South Boston to Neponset with disabled cars, most of them inbound. Gallivan blvd. was the scene of other battles to keep dying engines running.

The Forest Hills railroad station, nearby, saw two feet of water around the platform.

School. in many suburbs were closed.

At Hyde Park, the Readville section of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was flooded two feet of water being under the traffic bridge.

A street cavein closed a section of Thetford ave., Dorchester, near Robert Swan school.

A score of autos were pushed through two feet of water under the railroad bridge at Hamilton st. and Columbia rd., only to get wet ignitions.

The same fate met many more at Southern artery and Morton st.

In Roxbury Crossing district a score of cellars were flooded. The square at Shawmut ave. was under two feet of water.

Red bridge, Somerville, of the Boston & Maine, was flooded with three feet of water on the street level.

Street cars were halted for two hours at Fellsway and Fulton st., Medford, by a landslide down Fulton hill onto the rails.

At Wilcox st., Readville, and Eighth and N sts., South Boston, trucks were mired when the sudden rush of water brought caveins.

Small boats at Hull, Cohasset and other points along the shore were torn from their moorings with the blow that accompanied the first of the storm.

SEVEN POLICE CAPTAINS FACE TRANSFER IN IMPENDING SHAKEUP

CIVIC FORCES WANT AXE ON MOSHER

Shift of Rooney and Gallivan Is Also Sought; Hultman and Mulhern Confer

The impending police shakeup was in the air today, sniffed by rank and file of the department, also by racketeers and political leaders.

Seven captains, according to reports, are slated for transfer in the changes which Commissioner Hultman admitted yesterday, are to be made in the very near future.

Outside interests, it is known, are attempting to bring about the retirement of Capt. Jeremiah Mosher of Back Bay station, and the transfer of Capt. John J. Rooney of Hanover st. station and Capt. Jeremiah Gallivan of Lagrange st. station.

MULHERN SEES HULTMAN.

Senator Joseph J. Mulhern, father of the "Garrett" investigation and unsuccessful candidate for district attorney, was in a three-hour conference at headquarters with Commissioner Hultman.

Robert J. Bottomley, termed by former Gov. Fuller the "afternoon mayor" of Boston during the Nichols administration, waited two hours to talk with the commissioner. Their conference lasted only a few minutes.

Conferring with Supt. Crowley was Capt. Joseph McKinnon, who went to Dudley st. station following transfer of Capt. Richard Fitzgerald to Station 2. Fitzgerald's surprising application for retirement yesterday indicates McKinnon may again succeed him.

DRIVE AGAINST MOSHER

McKinnon's reports to the commissioner on liquor conditions in Roxbury were greatly at variance with those made by Fitzgerald.

Throughout the department it was reported outside interests were seeking to influence certain transfers and the retirement of Capt. Mosher. Since his arrival in Back Bay district, places that were in operation for years felt the pressure of his law enforcement activities.

His enemies have been arguing that Mosher's advanced age make him physically unfit for his post but Commissioner Hultman is known to have been impressed by his handling of the American Legion and President Hoover police details and his appearance in the parade on Monday.

Capt. Rooney, transferred this spring from City Point to the North End has had trouble with ranking officials over transfers of men under him. His activities against lottery promotors and liquor dispensers have made him a target for racketeers.

GALLIVAN'S RECORD

Capt. Gallivan who came into Lagrange st. from Roxbury Crossing, submitted reports of liquor conditions in his new division which varied greatly from those given by his predecessor.

When he discovered he was not getting co-operation from certain men under him in his new post he went to Supt. Crowley and Commissioner Hultman. His success in obtaining pictures of the interior of the Neptune A. C. after officials outranking him had failed also made him a target in certain quarters.

The "Beano" Breen case, in which Gallivan worked in co-operation with Assistant Corporation Counsel Leo Schwartz, has recently seen outside interference, it was learned, and Gallivan and Schwartz visited the vicinity of Breen's Tremont st. premises last Friday night.

Outside pressure, it is believed, will not affect the changes Commissioner Hultman has in mind.

Commissioner Hultman today rescinded a rule that has been in force for four years under which one sergeant in each division was held responsible for investigation of speakeasies, sporting houses, gambling dens and vice in general. Hereafter all sergeants will be held equally responsible.

Formerly, persons wishing to "fix" a case had to deal with only one sergeant. Thus, it was said, was that Oliver B. Garrett, now a fugitive from justice, was able when leader of the headquarters liquor squad to keep liquor cases throughout the city under his control.

Marriage Vows Hold 'Em Better; Divorces Less

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Matrimony claimed 1,232,559 couples in the United States last year, while during the same period 201,475 divorces were recorded.

The preliminary report of the 1929 matrimonial statistics issued today by the Department of Commerce showed 10.1 marriages were performed for every 1000 of population, while divorces totaled 1.66 per thousand.

The ratio of divorces to marriages showed that for each 6.1 marriages performed one coupled was dissolved. The year before the ratio was an even six to one.

Nevada divorces totaled 2533 and were 28 per 1000 of population, but the rate of marriages per 1000 was 63.7. This was attributed largely to the adoption of strict marriage laws by its neighbor, California.

Delaware had the lowest figure on marriages, only 5.2 per 1000. Georgia had the lowest proportion of divorces to marriages, one being granted only to each 18.3 new unions.

Numerically Texas led in divorces with 18,386. New York reported the most marriages, with 121,535.

$6,000,000 FAIR PLANS REVEALED

Plans for the New England States century of progress exposition were announced today by Mayor James M. Curley, the $6,000,000 project to be staged next June in Columbus Park, South Boston.

More than 4,000,000 visitors are expected. They will see the story of New England unfolded before them in exhibits.

A building program to be started in early spring will raise a maze of buildings at the park, their cost alone being estimated at more than $2,000,000.

The plans were approved by Mayor Curley today as head of the commercial, industrial and publicity bureau and citizens' committee, sponsors of the project.

Musical revues, military spectacles, reproduction of historic battles and pyrotechnic displays are planned.

More than 1500 booths will house exhibits of the industries and commercial endeavors of the six New England states.

The committee has opened offices in the Chamber of Commerce building, 80 Federal st.

Meterologist Hits Weather Fallacy

Baltimore, Oct. 15 (INS)—John R. Weeks, meteorologist, said today there is no truth in the popular conception an unusually hot summer is followed by a severe winter. A study of weather maps for 113 years, he said, shows the average temperature of a winter following a summer like that just passed can either be above or below normal.

Coe, in Boston, Says 'Legs' Diamond Fears to Tell

Charles Francis Coe, criminologist and writer of under-world fiction-founded-on-fact, came to Boston, his former home, today on business entirely apart from his literary pursuit.

At the Boston Athletic Association, of which he is a member, he indicated that, according to his theory, there is little interest and nothing unusual in the attempted assassination of "Legs" Diamond in New York.

Diamond is just another of those small caliber crooks who has run his course and has been 'on the spot' for the past 18 months. He has neither the brains nor the sagacity of Rothstein, whose body guard he was, nor of Al Capone or other gang leaders who have thus far survived the bullets of their comrades.

AFRAID TO "SQUEAL"

"Diamond, like a lot of his fellows, has tried to play both ends and the middle of the racketeering game with the inevitable result. If he doesn't die now he will a little later.

"The halo of bravery with which the press surrounds such crooks as Diamond is ridiculous. They refuse to talk on their deathbeds, not because of any code of underworld honor but because they are afraid. They think, in the first place, that they will recover and are being framed into making admissions. And they know if they do tell a story and then get well they will be killed.

"I do not believe that the women mentioned in the Diamond case know the first thing about the attack upon him. They are just—well, they are just on the outside. Gangsters do not make confederates of that class of women."

PRAISES MALONEY

Speaking of boxing as it now exists, Coe said it is "in the bag" so far as the underworld is concerned and monopolized to a large extent by racketeer influence.

He took particular pains, however, to pay tribute to "Jimmy" Maloney as an honest fighter and pointed to his recent defeat of Carnera here as doing much to restore public confidence.

Asked his opinion of Jack Sharkey and his future, Coe replied with one word—"Boloney." He also expressed the opinion that Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, is the greatest potential heavyweight in America today.

Dry Chief M'Bride's Brother Held in Jail

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Police today said they were holding Emmett McBride of Salineville, O., brother of the Rev. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, for Ohio authorities. The prisoner, they said, had been in jail two days. They declined to discuss charges against him.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 15 (INS)—Claiming he had been insulted by the Arizona game commission, Zane Grey today asserted he intended giving Arizona a wide berth. The commission had refused to grant him a permit to kill bears that had been killing pigs on his properties.

DIAMOND GAINS IN FIGHT FOR HIS LIFE

Five Held, Hunt Three Others in Shooting of New York Gunman-Racketeer

New York, Oct. 15—Jack "Legs" Diamond, New York gangster, shot Sunday in a hotel room, seemed today to be winning his fight against five bullet wounds.

He rallied during the night from a pulmonary collapse he sufferd yesterday afternoon, and today Dr. C. M. Burnett, chief resident surgeon of Polyclinic Hospital, described his condition as satisfactory, though still critical.

Diamond's wife visited him last evening in the same room where Arnold Rothstein died two years ago, remaining at his bedside for half an hour. It was reported Diamond failed to recognize her.

FIVE NOW HELD

Five persons are under arrest and imprisoned as material witnesses in the shooting.

At the same time, John M. Ginsberg, missing manager of the Monticello Hotel where the crime was committed, surrendered.

Skeptical of Ginsberg's story, he was made the chief figure in the case and placed under $25,000 bail with the other material witnesses, who were held in $5000 bail each. They are:

Marion Strasmick, alias Marion Roberts, of Roxbury, Mass., pretty former Follies girl, who shared Diamond's room at the Monticello; Joseph Goldie, assistant manager of the hotel; Thomas Marshal, day clerk, and John Hughes, bell boy.

PARTNER SOUGHT

Ginsberg said that Wallace D. Bennett of Edgewater, N. J., called at the hotel about 11 a. m. on Sunday to take him to the Bennett home. He said he heard two shots, looked out the hall door and saw Diamond coming out of a rom with his head down.

"I asked him what had happened," said Ginsberg.

"'I've been shot,'" he replied. "'I'm awfully hurt. Do something for me. Get me a doctor.' I told Tom Marshall, the hotel clerk, to get Dr. Babcock. Diamond was groaning and said to me, 'Get me a big drink of whiskey.'

"I gave him a drink. Diamond sail, 'Call Harry Drescher.' I I called Marshall and told him to send Drescher up. Joseph Goldie, the assistant manager of the hotel, came in and Diamond said to him, 'To hell with the doctor, call the ambulance.' Goldie asked who had done the shooting. I went downstairs."

Ginsberg then described how he fled to New Jersey and remained at the Bennett home until Monday, when he and Bennett went to Philadelphia.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, who heard the story of Ginsberg with District Attorney Crain in the prosecutor's office, sent out a general alarm for the apprehension of Drescher for questioning.

3 MORE WANTED

Simultaneously, he ordered three other men brought in, as a result of their identification by the former Follies girl as participants in a conference with Diamond last Friday night.

The three men of the conference are "Count" Muller, alias Brenner, of the hotel, who was Diamond's guide on the European tour that ended with their deportation from Germany a few weeks ago; Charles Entratta, who stood trial and was acquitted with Diamond in the Hotsy-Totsy club murders, and Ted Newberry, the so-called lieutenant of "Scarface Al" Capone.

A fourth participant in the meeting, Marion asserted was Abe Figera, a muscle man of the Diamond gang, who was killed and flung into the road near Harrison, N. J., less than ten hours before his chief was showered with lead.

Pals of Diamond Nabbed on Drug Charges

Montreal, Can., Oct. 15 (UP)—Sam Arcady and two confederates known to be closely allied with the notorious Jack "Legs" Diamond, of New York, were under arrest here after being apprehended with a large quantity of illicit drugs.

Diamond Shooting Holds "First Page" in England

London, Oct. 15 (AP)—The attempt against Jack "Legs" Diamond's life in New York continues to be a front page feature throughout Great Britain.

No American news story in years has claimed so much public attention in England. The London Daily Express said editorially today:

"Everybody is asking why it is that gangs in American cities are not broken up and stamped out. Here is the answer, in the extracts from Mr. Diamond's dossier:

"Age 33; arrested in past 16 years for most of the crimes which come between burglary and murder 23 times; acquitted or discharged 21 times. Sentences served—a term in the reformatory and one year for army desertion. Gangsters flourish in the United States because of the virtually complete failure of American justice to secure and enforce convictions. Judges, lawyers and politicians have made crime one of the safest of American call-

$500,000 GIFT BY MAXWELL

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 15 (AP)—The Syracuse Post-Standard today said George H. Maxwell, Boston millionaire phinathropist and alumnus of Syracuse University, presented his alma mater with half a million dollars for a new school of citizenship and public affairs building.

The school is housed in the Joseph Slocum College which also serves three other departments. This is the third large sum Mr. Maxwell has given Syracuse University. He founded the school of citizenship in 1924, with an endowment of $500,00 later increasing the amount to a million.

Mr. Maxwell was graduated from Syracuse University in 1888. He was attached to the patent office in Washington and later studied law at Columbia University. In Boston he is an outstanding patent lawyer, a prominent manufacturer and inventor.

He also founded the chair of public citizenship at Boston University.

George H. Maxwell, who is president of the North American Chemical Co., and a resident of Chestnut st., Cambridge, said today he "had not given the university anything yet." He refused to discuss the report further.

Tree That Shaded Washington Burns

Middletown, Ct., Oct. 15 (AP)—A chestnut tree under which Gen. George Washington ate his dinner while on a march through this section was burned today. The tree was more than 200 years old, and stood at the junction of Pine st. and Long Hill rd., on a triangle of land owned by the city.

Deport 'Reds', Mayor Curley Urges as Aftermath of Radical Outbreak in Boston

Mayor Curley

Deportation is the only way to deal with "Reds" who try to settle America's economic problems by violence, Mayor Curley said today, commenting on the outbreak on Tremont st. The mayor said:

"The report with reference to a riot in the vicinity of the Hotel Bradford, where the American Federation of Labor is convening, disclosed the fact that many of those responsible for the disturbances are not citizens of Boston, and this has been true in every similar disturbance that has taken place during the present year.

"The A. F. of L. and public officials generally are honestly doing their best to relieve industrial depression and to the present time the only contribution made by the so-called 'Reds' is represented by talk and violation of existing laws.

"The present industrial depression, like every other great problem which has confronted the American people during the existence of the Republic, will ultimately be settled and settled right, and the best method of dealing with those individuals who would substitute violence for orderly procedure in the settlement of economic problems is to deport them to the country whose subjects they are.

"And the sooner America is rid of them, more particularly the Russian red radicals, the better for America and the worse for Russia."

SLAYER NAMED IN DYING GIRL'S LAST BREATH

Westfield, Oct. 15—Gasping the name of the man believed to be her slayer, Jennie Carr of East Hartland, Ct., died at the Noble Hospital here yesterday of shotgun wounds in the back.

"Patnode" was the name she murmured, according to the police, and today in the court at East Hartland the man, known as George Patnode, will be arraigned on the charge of murder.

Miss Carr, who was 25 years old, lived with her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lichdi, at a farm in East Hartland. They adopted her 14 years ago. Patnode lived in a house nearby, owned by the Lichdis.

Back of the shooting is the story of a broken love affair between Patnode and Lena Lichdi, foster sister of Miss Carr. He had been engaged to marry Miss Lichdi for several years and last week she broke the engagement because, it is said, Patnode had been drinking.

Yesterday a passing motorist found Miss Carr in the road not far from her home mortally wounded. She was dressed in farm overalls and evidently had been working about the farm when shot. She was wounded in the back by deer slugs from a double-barrelled shotgun and had tried to reach home by crawling along the road.

Patnode admitted that he had fired the shotgun in the barn while he was practising the manual of arms in military fashion. He also admitted having thrown the gun into the well after the shooting, but was unable to recall shooting the girl.

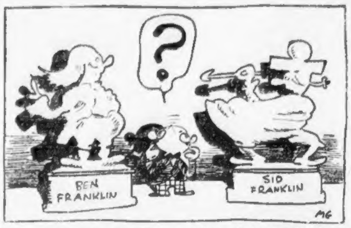
Plans to Be a Franklin and Win Some Honors, Too



PROLOGUE

New York, Oct. 15—Sidney Franklin, a Brooklyn boy who went to Mexico to study art, learned bullfighting, went to Spain and became famous, was welcomed home yesterday.

The Brooklyn matador, just back from Spain, arrived at City Hall with an escort of cowboys and a cowboy band.

There he was greeted by Aldermanic President McKee, the acting mayor, who said:

"I want to welcome you home as a man who has shown himself to be a gentleman first, and a man of great courage."

Franklin thanked McKee and continued:

"There's no place like the good old U. S. A. and the City of New York."

Scottish Beauty Bride of Sultan of Jahore

London, Oct. 15 (AP)—A whirlwind courtship of almost fairy tale romance reached a climax at noon today in the marriage at the registry office of the powerful Sultan of Jahore, reputedly one of the richest rulers of the East, and Mrs. Helen Wilson, an auburn-haired Scottish beauty.

Mrs. Wilson, daughter of a business man, thus becomes Queen of one of the world's greatest rulers, with power, palaces and untold wealth.

Mrs. Wilson and the Sultan first met several years ago in Jahore. The Wilsons' marriage was dissolved and she returned to England.

The Sultan determined suddenly to woo her and dashed to England, arriving the other day with his proposal. He was accepted and asked for a quick wedding.

The Sultan, 57, is athletic and a great sportsman and big game hunter. His bride is 40.

R. I. BROKERS GO BANKRUPT

Providence, Oct. 15—C. L. Vaughan & Co., one of the largest brokerage houses in the city, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal court today.

Members of the firm, Charles L. Vaughan and C. Lincoln Vaughan, Jr., gave notice of the firm's inability to meet obligations and its willingness to surrender all property in its possession for benefit of creditors.

No assets and liabilities were listed. Charles B. Croppen was appointed receiver by the court.

The senior member said it would be impossible to file a schedule of liabilities for a week or 10 days. One of the largest liabilities, it was disclosed, is a $140,000 loan made by a local bank. The firm has 150 or 200 open marginal accounts which, it is expected, will suffer losses.

C. L. Vaughan & Co. did a business in Boston and local securties but had no connection with any other house.

Ex-Convict Admits Slaying of Girl

Kansas City, Oct. 15 (AP)—Paul H. Kaufman, 31, ex-convict, confessed to police today that he killed Avis Woolrey, 17, here last August 17, after luring the girl from her home with a promise to employ her as a nurse maid.

Gang Victim

JOSEPH ROMANO, associate, police say, of the late Samuel Rheinstein in the white slave racket, was taken for a ride because he "knew too much."

ROMANO'S 1ST WIFE HUNTED

Police investigation of the fatal shooting of Joseph Romano, Brooklyn gangster, on a lonely Middleboro road, centered today in a search for an East Boston woman, believed to have been his first wife.

Romano died yesterday in St. Luke Hospital, New Bedford.

State Detective Joseph Ferrari said today the East Boston woman might give information that would lead to an arrest. He said she had not been seen in East Boston since last Saturday when she is reported to have told friends she was going to New York. Romano, before he died, told police he had left Brooklyn with two men on Saturday.

Mrs. Pauline Romano, his four weeks bride, returned today from Boston to Brooklyn. She told Ferrari she was not interested in what became of her husband's body.

Police disclosed today that Romano entered this country by being smuggled over the Canadian border and that several years ago while awaiting deportation he escaped from Chelsea Naval Hospital.

Woman Dies in Auto

Gardner, Oct. 15—Mrs. Margaret I. Sloan, 44, wife of Frank Sloan of 86 Park terrace rd., Worcester, died suddenly of a heart attack while riding with her husband in his car last night.

Here's a Fisherman Who Takes Trout by Thousands

Madison, Wis., Oct. 15 (AP)—Trout filching—not fishing—has come to pass. Twenty-three thousand trout, eating size, have been filched from a pond on the Nokoma golf course.

The trout had been placed in the pond for later transplanting in other waters from which they might be fished, one at a time.

Then somebody too impatient to take them one by one seined them out.

Collector Bowers Dead

Albany, Oct. 15 (AP)—Frank K. Bowers, collector of internal revenue for the port of New York, died here last night. He was taken ill with heart disease while attending the Republican State convention three weeks ago.

TROOPS RETURN IN RACE WAR

Ste. Genevieve, Mo., Oct. 15 (AP)—Ste. Genevieve was under military control today for the second time this week after troops had been ordered to return here when new threats of mob violence became evident, resulting from the failure of a negro mail carrier and his two brothers to heed a warning to leave town.

Practically all other negroes left Ste. Genevieve after the slaying Sunday of one white man and the fatal wounding of another by three negroes. Troops that rushed here from De Soto and Festus and left for their homes yesterday after danger of trouble semed over returned at 1:45 a. m. today.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

Two items deeply impressed me in your paper. The world is growing hotter is one. Dr. J. W. Humphrey, physicist, is proclaiming this. It will be a gradual heating up, he claims. The heat will not torture this generation or the one to come. But future generations will get Hell on earth as far as heat is concerned. Some of us are getting that now. So this is nothing new to a baker's dozen of us right here in Boston.

The the other item is that the earth is now 2,000,000,000 years old. This is what Prof. Otto Hahan of Berlin is giving out as news. I think that the earth's birthday should be made an international holiday. We need another holiday in the calendar, and this type would be a good day to play pee wee golf in the subway, if ever it is allowed to be perpetrated in that chasm. This you know is on the docket. We get a good many interesting items in your paper and these two just took my eye and called out these suggestions. B. N. NEILLY.

Tells Why Dry Law Is Not a Success

Editor Boston American:

To the impartial observer it seems that the Eighteenth Amendment was not derived from a settled opinion of the majority of the people. Although originating from a sound impelling impulse the period chosen seemed to be not opportune. Ancient lawgivers exercised care and judgment when the public good was at stake.

When Solon was asked if he had given his countrymen the best laws he answered: "The best they are capable of receiving." This is one of the profoundest utterances on record. It utters a truth, which had it been recognized, would have saved men an immensity of idle dispute.

It means this, that all truths are truths of period and not truths of eternity.

Although abstinence from alcohol exemplifies a cardinal truth, the particular law forbidding the consumption of liquor, did not show as yet "enough strength and vitality to make itself real."

Not only is there an impaired harmony among lawgiving bodies prevalent, but also the so treasured home life of the family circle had suffered enormously. Why? Because not all are ready to receive the law.

Receiving this law is an individual experience and it involves many an unpleasant moment until the abstinence from alcohol can be gained. When this period has approached then it is the duty of the lawgivers to proceed with such enactments as prohibition. Mankind will finally give up all so-called stimulants—when the period is opportune—but not sooner. PAUL KOTCHNER.

Dry Repeal Seen as Cure For Unemployment

Editor Boston American:

As a citizen I feel it is my duty to contribute a little of my mind and thought of how things are going with regard to unemployment and politics and the eternal prohibition question, and the disarmanent remedy.

Does the true and real American voter stop and think deep enough about this serious situation about unemployment and what it finally will bring and what will be the results.

Is the American voter so blind he does not see the rich, the medium well-to-do, these who can afford it go to foreign states or countries, spend more than what is needed to get a few drinks which cannot be obtained lawfully in the United States. This takes so much money out of our country, which if prohibition was righted, would be stopped.

This would all be stopped if a family could buy, lawfully, a few bottles of beer to take home. Now, just realize what employment this would make for men that have a family to supply with bread. It would create price for the farmers' grain situation, make work for the contractors, carpenters, barrel-workers, bottle-makers, truck factories, truck drivers, laborers, transportation, shipping. Anyway, it certainly would create a thousand times more good than it now does.

They must realize the situation is serious and that something must be done to remedy this. When unemployment exists, there is very little buying; consequently, business dullness. All kinds of schemes are thought up by the man that must get bread. Some resort to petty stealing; others to bold robbery; some to temporarily kill the hunger; others do it to be arrested and go to prison, and be kept there at public expense. Idleness is a very bad omen for all concerned over the whole country.

WALTER R. DUNFORD.

Praises Police for Good Work in Parade

Editor Boston American:

I have read your paper every day for years and I want to congratulate it, for first in news which the public wants. By having such alert men your paper deserves plenty of praise. I want to congratulate Mr. Hultman and the Superintendent for having such fine men under their charge. The day of the big Legion parade I saw every police officer work diligently and patiently through the long, tiresome hours. I also want to praise that brave Officer Nelson for what he did. Also the night police officer whose route is around Scollay sq. He is a brave officer and deserves plenty of merit.

Straight Thinking Needed to Avoid Depressions

Editor Boston American:

Now that the clouds of business depression are gradually being swept away, we ought to get down to hard tacks in our thinking. We had no panic, did we? Back in 1837, 1857, 1873, 1893, they had panics. People cut down on food rations. They ate corn bread with molasses with a new relish and better appetite. But old fashioned panics have gone and need not return.

There was a depression in 1921, after the World War. People began to fear the worst was coming, but they actually suffered but little and recovery was rapid.

We have a better idea of running business than fifty years ago. We are giving more attention to the technique of business. Colleges of Business Administration can do more along these lines of meeting adverse conditions, not by magnifying them but, so to speak, pulling them by the nose in the right direction. The fundamental facts of trade and industry are to be handled differently. N. H. JYDE.

Time Still Left, Writer Says, to Honor Ryan

Editor Boston American:

I see by the papers that a movement is on foot to give "Ryan of Dorchester" a tribute of some kind for his seven-year job to make Boston the "Greatest Good Will City" in the world.

I believe that Mr. Ryan would have been recognized and decorated two years ago if he had lived in a foreign city. It is not too late, however, to call Boston to give him official thanks and recognition. E. GAMMON.

Warns of Using "Red" Methods in U. S.

Editor Boston American:

Yes, Mrs. Mosher, you have a right to work for a change in goverment if you wish to do so provided you do not use Communist methods of slitting throats.

It is evident that you do not know much about present conditions in Russia or you would not be so enthusiastic. A small bloodthirsty minority is in power. The people are not happy. I have this from an engineer friend of mine who has been there.

Why has Russia any right to send money over here to hire agitators against our government. Don't let these misguided people kid you that they are working for nothing but love for the cause of Communism.

I admit that we have graft. It exists all over the world in spite of any opinion you may have to the contrary. In spite of this we have the most progressive and best country in the world. If I were you I would move for our form of government will not change during your lifetime. If you and your Communist friends want to work for a change don't attempt any Russian methods of sabotage, riots, murder, etc.

If you could convince me that your system is better I would change, but read both sides and think madam. Also don't believe all of what you hear.

PETER WOODS.

Praises Police for Care of Legionnaires

Editor Boston American:

A word of commendation for the police and their splendid attitude toward the Legion visitors and the public.

I have never seen the like of it before, and the reason that all went off so well was that the police were not looking for trouble. This all harmonizes in spirit to Police Commissioner Hultman's courtesy edict. The effect of which is, public co-operation. MAX HENRY NEWMAN.

U.S. MISSIONARY SEIZED IN CHINA

Peiping, China, Oct. 15 (AP)—Frank P. Lockhart, American consul-general, advised the legation today that Bert N. Nelson, American missionary of the Lutheran United Mission Home, Minneapolis, is being held by brigands.

His abductors belong to the so-called First Red army. They captured him after the fall of Kwangshan, Southeast Honan, on October 5. A large ransome has been demanded.

The legation is making representations to the Nanking Government.

Curley Says Edicts of Boston Censor Must Be Obeyed

Stage producers who fail to comply with recommendations of City Censor John Casey were threatened with drastic punishment today by Mayor Curley.

Hereafter, the mayor said, licensees will lose their license for an indefinite period, instead of for the scheduled duration of the show, as heretofore.

This pronouncement resulted from a report of Censor Casey with regard to Earl Carroll's Sketch Book at the Shubert Theater.

The law in Boston is that girls appearing on the stage must wear stockings. Casey reported to Mayor Curley that in one scene 30 girls were on the stage with bare legs.

2 WAYS at once!

Being an external treatment, Vicks is especially appreciated by mothers because it avoids the constant "dosing" which so often disturbs children's delicate digestions.

More and more mothers every year turn to the double action of Vicks VapoRub in checking colds, coughs, sore throat and spasmodic croup.

Rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, Vicks acts through the skin like a plaster. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air-passages.

This double action of Vicks breaks up congestion and eases breathing, thus preventing the night coughs which so often rob both mother and child of restful sleep.

A feature of the meeting will be the membership tea and social hour following the program.

Insurance Question Before General Federation

By NANCY BREWSTER

Is the accident risk in the daily lives of homemakers such that the General Federation of Women's Clubs should ask insurance companies, generally, to insure women for such accident disability as requires a physician's attendance?

This is one of the questions that the division of family finance in the Federation is urging clubwomen throughout the country to consider in an effort to establish the American home on a sound financial basis.

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE

Dr. Josephine L. Pierce, chairman of this division, in pointing out the necessity of a financial plan for every family, suggests that the accident survey now being conducted by the Federation may give facts proving that accidents are numerous in the home, that each disabling accident to the homemaker robs the family of service which would have financial value if outside assistance must be secured and that doctors' bills may result from such accident.

Not until women recognize that household management is as great a business enterprise as running a factory, office or store will the American home be maintained efficiently and economically, Dr. Pierce asserts.

As the first step in such management the division recommends that the financial plan be a family affair with parents and children having equal voice and including money standards for children. This not only leads to consideration of budgets for food, clothing, shelter, recreation and education, but means a closer relationship of the family, mutual understanding and sharing responsibility.

STATUTE STUDY URGED

The division further recommends a study of the statutes in each state covering the willing of property.

The statutes relating to disposition of property are exceedingly diverse in their details in the several states, it is pointed out by Dr. Pierce who considers it a vital necessity for every woman to know the laws of her own state concerning testamentary power of married and unmarried women; descent and distribution of property of intestates; rights of children, widow, surviving husband as heir; parents, brothers and sisters as heirs.

Special Open House Days Will Feature Y.W.C.A. Program

Three special "open house" days will feature the activities of the Boston Y. W. C. A. during the all-Massachusetts "Know Your Y. W. C. A. Week" to be observed Oct. 19-25.

The first of these days is to be Sunday, Oct. 19, when the business girls' department will be hostess for an informal afternoon of music, a tour of the building, tea and a general social time welcoming the general public. The hour is 3:30 at 140 Clarendon st.

On Wednesday the committee of the girls' residence will entertain in a similar manner at 40 Berkeley st. with Mrs. Robert Dodge, ex-president, as chairman. On Thursday afternoon the international institute committee, assisted by girls of various nationalities, will be "at home" at 130 Beacon st.

The Boston association will entertain special groups for suppers the largest of which will be the Monday evening spread for members eligible for the first fall membership supper. Dr. Boynton Merrill will be honor guest and Mrs. Harold C. Stuart of Brookline will preside as hostess.

Better Homes Group Plans Luncheon at Copley Plaza Hotel

Plans for the work of the Massachusetts committee of better homes in America willl be discussed at a luncheon tomorrow at the Copley Plaza, where Mrs. James J. Storrow, chairman, will be hostess to the local chairmen and leaders throughout the state.

The speakers will include Dr. James Ford, executive director, representing the national headquarters in Washington; William Stanley Parker, national president of the Architects Small House Service Bureau; Mrs. William Ward Whitcher, outstanding leader of Somerville; Mrs. Harriet Haynes of Mass. Agricultural College, and Miss Mary E. Driscoll, assistant to Mrs. Storrow. Many prominent guests will attend this luncheon meet.

Dean of Clubwomen Honored by Group on Retirement Eve

Miss Marion Howard Brazier, "dean of Boston clubwomen," announced her retirement from active club life yesterday when she was honored by the Professional Women's Club as its founder at its first meeting of the season held at the Statler.

Miss Brazier was presented a purse of gold and showered with congratulations by hundreds of women representing all professions as five of the 70 charter members of the club ushered at the big reception. These five original members were Miss Harriet Foster, Lilla Viles Wyman, Dr. Eliza Cahill, Miss Carrie Holley and Mrs. Florence Gilbert.

Miss Brazier organized 10 clubs in Boston, among them the powerful Professional Women's Club now 23 years old.

"At the first call for professional women to join in a new club, 12 professions responded," Miss Brazier related. "Today we have nearly every imaginable profession represented, with the musicians leading with 470 members."

Boston Ruskin Club to Hear Oliver at Library October 20

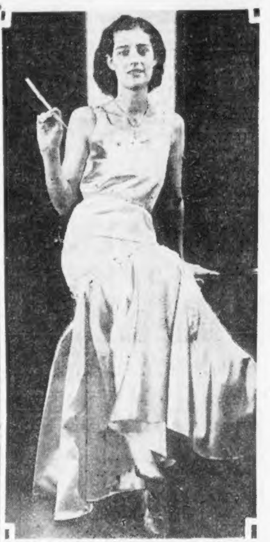
Andrew Oliver, Ph.D., of Brookline will give an illustrated lecture at the meeting of the Boston Ruskin Club next Monday Oct. 20, at 3 o'clock at the Boston Public Library. His subject is "Along the Florida Keys." The lecture is open to the public. The president, Miss Lilla Elizabeth Kelley, will preside.

South End Group to Hear Lecture by Dr. John Ruskin

On Monday evening, October 20, the members and friends of the South End Women's Club will listen to an illustrated lecture by Dr. John Ruskin of the Massachusetts Association of Fur Bearers, on "Facts About Fur Bearers and Their Habits." This lecture will be given in the club room at 20 Union Park at 8 o'clock. Miss Carolyn Dupee and Mrs. Lilla Fuller will be hostesses for the evening.

White Satin for Evening Important

By ANN ARDEN



—Boston Evening American Staff Photo.

MODEL FROM THEODORE, INC.

FOREMOST OF the fall fashion trends is for satin—an enthusiastic sponsoring of white satin for evening, a heavy slipper satin, with its lustre dulled, or a supple, thinner satin.

NOT ONLY is the sheen of satin in complete accord with the forecasted richness of the forthcoming formal mode but white satin has a classic elegance, unrivaled. For your first formal frock of autumn you can make no better choice. Wear it in all white with your white evening wrap. Or accent it brilliantly with color.

WHETHER THE flares of yesteryear would last into the new evening mode has been a question that is now answered. The flare of the new evening frock is a new flare. It is obvious. It is outspoken. Last year's flares were apt to lie quiet, becoming apparent only in the graceful movements of the dance. This year's flares come right out and proclaim their existence. Very often they are supported by starched or stiffened petticoats that extend jauntily from the knees.

MOST OF us have bowed our shingled heads to the dictates of the ladylike fashion and have allowed our locks to lengthen. Here are ornaments to add smartness to our long tresses. A jeweled barette holds last season's bob to the new mode, clasped at the back of the head above the curled ends of the hair. Another jeweled pin makes an exotic accent for the low chignon. These ornaments are satisfactory ways of calling attention to what is about to become once more our crowning glory.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WHDH.

General Federation Pottery Exhibit to Be Shown Oct. 21

The pottery exhibit belonging to the General Federation will be on display at the meeting of the Wollaston Woman's Club on Tuesday, October 21, at Masonic Temple.

The program on that occasion will be a reading, "A Doll's House," by Elizabeth Pooler Rice.

50 Take Course at Chelsea High School

Fifty students are enrolled in the 1930 Harvard-Boston University course conducted in the Chelsea High school auditorium by Dr. Lilah Vaughan of the B. U. School of Education on the theme, "Why We Behave Like Human Beings." The group at Chelsea makes the total enrollment for the 13th annual series of such courses throughout New England, 650 teachers studying under the plan.

Debutantes Feted at Gala Country Club Dance

A dance was given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Luther Felton and Mrs. Clifton Howard Dwinnell, all of West Newton and Duxbury, last night at The Country Club in Brookline for their daughters, the misses Ann Felton and Elisabeth Dwinnell. Frederic Luther Felton and Marshall Dwinnell, brothers of the debutantes, had charge of the ushers, for whom a dinner was given immediately before the dance.

House guests of Miss Felton attending the party were Miss Carol Pratt of Englewood, N. J., and Miss Mary Law Starr of Philadelphia. Miss Elsie Robinson of Philadelphia was a house guest of Miss Dwinnell. Others from that city were the Misses Mignon Foederer and Miss Anne Treat. Ushers included Clifton H. Dwinnell, Sterling Adams, George M. Bartol, James F. Baldwin, Gerald J. Cassedy, Wilson Crosby, John P. Cowin, Lincoln Dow, William P. Elwell and Clarence Galston.

Others were Raymond Hunt, Robert S. Hurlburt, Edmund Keville, Charles D. Marshall, Francis A. Martin, Albert Pratt, Frederick B. Rice, J. Baldwin Robinson, William L. Shearer, 3d, John C. Soule, Frederick Tudor, John S. Wilbor, A. Vernon Woodworth, Jr., Frank L. Young, 2d, Henri David, and from other cities, Philip Beckwith of Hartford, Ct., and John E. Cookman of Englewood, N. J.

Friends of the debutantes also present were the Misses Kitty Talbot, Virginia McNeil, Jane Winkley, Eleanor Notman, Gretchen Bremer, Katharine Rust, Elizabeth Harding, Jane Brown, Mary McElwain, Barbara Holdsworth, Betty Pope, Eleanor Rowe, Caroline Hunnewell, Elizabeth Stephenson, Elizabeth Siegener, Elizabeth Scott, Constance Brewer, Lucy Dodge, Barbara Eaton, Martha Stearns, Mabel Bell and Barbara Hodges, in addition to Mrs. Frederic L. Felton and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Crosby. There was also a table of friends of the parents of the girls.

FEDERALS WIN VICTORIES

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 15 (AP)—Renewed successes in every quarter of fighting with revolutionary troops were claimed today by the Government in an official announcement of the minister of justice, who listed victories in the State of Minas Geraes, Parana and eastern Rio de Janeiro.

A federal army operating in northeastern Rio de Janeiro repulsed a rebel attack at Itaocara, on a direct rail route to Nictheroy, across the strait from Rio de Janeiro, yesterday. There was prolonged heavy fighting. The federals captured three machine guns with 4500 rounds of ammunition and other automatic arms.

Another column of federal soldiers in the same area forced rebel troops from Minas Geraes out of Porto Velho and now are in front of Porto Novo do Cunha, across the border in Minas Geraes. Nearby other forces have taken the towns of San Antonio do Chiador and Mar D'Espanha.

On the long Sao Paulo-Parana front the federals are sustaining their advanced positions and repelling all attacks of the rebels, who suffered heavy casualties along the entire line, it was said.

FIRES SPREAD IN NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 15 (AP)—Acres of standing timber were falling today before the rapid advance of forest fires blazing on a score of widely separate fronts in Nova Scotia.

In Queen's and Lunenburg counties, where more than 30 houses and scores of timbered acres were destroyed last spring, came reports of a situation rapidly growing serious. Many hundreds of men were on the fire lines.

In the Lake Rossignol district of Queen's county the largest fire blazed on a five-mile front, almost surrounding the village of Middlefield.

Airplane Silencer Cuts Motor Noise

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Oct. 15 (INS)—An invention for cutting down the motor noises of airplanes was pronounced a success today after tests here. The invention consists of a series of fans run by the motor and attached to exhaust pipes.

PORT OF BOSTON

BY CARL MORRISON

Maine apples are beginning to move out of Boston harbor in large quantities for the first time in some years.

Rogers & Webb report that the Natirir of the Yankee Line will sail late today for Hamburg with 1200 barrels, or six carloads, of some of the choicest products of the Pine Tree State. Other shipments will follow.

RATE MEETING

Mayor Curley has called a meeting Friday at the Parker House for 12:30 o'clock of prominent harbor boosters. The gathering will discuss the rail differential situation, which will be considered about December 1 at Boston hearing, before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

MODERN MARINER

Today's entry in the diary of our Modern Mariner is:

"Have been invited to attend meetings of the new Prosperity Club just organized. The charter members are Hal McGinn, Mickie LaMotta, Frank Milindy, "Frenchy" Joyce and Henry Martella. The club is to help combat business depression in the harbor."

LONG CARGO

The Norwegian steamer Hello is under charter to the Farquhar line and is tied up at the New Haven docks on a special cargo. Two miles of cable wire are being loaded in a two-day job to be used at Belle Island in Newfoundland.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

The subject of today's harbor sketch is Calvin Austin, for many years president of the Eastern Steamship Co. and now head of its board of directors.

Calvin Austin

This "grand old man" of steamship circles has retired as president, but still reports for work every day. He has grown up with the line during a half century of service, and has many outstanding achievements to his credit.

During his presidency the line built many of its wharves on the Kennebec and the Penobscot, where he became the best known man in steamship fields in eastern U. S. He helped build the tourist business to Bar Harbor from practically nothing to the huge development of today.

Mr. Austin is said to be one of very few steamship men who have ships named after him in New England. The Calvin Austin is one of the fastest of the fleet. His hobby is his job.

Doctor R., Pa., says: "Pluto Water flushes away the poisonous waste, restoring normal, healthy activity."

Doctor H., O., says: "Pluto is the safest and most efficient Mineral Spring Water I have prescribed during the past 20 years."

Doctor M., Cal., says: "I consider Pluto Water the most reliable and satisfactory laxative."

Doctor E., Ill., says: "I frequently prescribe Pluto Water to effect complete elimination and find its action certain and quick."

Doctor W., Calif., says: "Pluto Water gently flushes the system without irritation or disagreeable results."

Doctor J., O., says: "In my practice I prescribe Pluto Water in preference to irritating types of laxatives."

Doctor J., Ill., says: "I find Pluto Water very reliable and agreeable."

Doctor W., Mo., says: "I prescribe Pluto Water wherever such an agent is indicated and my patients hold this remedy in high esteem."

Doctor F., Mich., says: "I have used and prescribed Pluto Water for years."

THOUSANDS of DOCTORS CAN'T BE WRONG

FOR more than fifty years doctors have been prescribing Pluto, America's laxative mineral water.

The doctors whose words of endorsement appear on this page are but a few of thousands whose expressions of approval have come to us. The originals of these endorsements and photographs are in our files at French Lick Springs. However, out of respect to long-standing custom in the medical profession—and because medical societies prefer that doctor-members refrain from lending their names to printed advertisements—we have, in fairness to these doctors, omitted their names and made their photographs unrecognizable.

Doctors recognize in Pluto Water the perfect saline laxative. Pluto contains all the essential salines found in the natural health waters of the famous health Springs at French Lick, Indiana.

Pluto Water is not a patent medicine — not a harmful drug. It works with nature in bringing sure, safe and quick relief from bowel congestion.

Pluto Water cannot injure the most delicate tissues. It really water-washes the tract—flushes out the intestines in from 30 minutes to two hours after taking. It never gripes or causes discomfort.

When you need a physic, why gamble with uncertain measures? Follow the knowledge and judgment of these competent medical advisors. On this page alone, thirty-seven doctors tell you TAKE PLUTO WATER! And thousands of others every day give the self-same sound advice.

Pluto Water is sold at drug stores and fountains everywhere. Two sizes—20c and 45c. For your health's sake, take home a bottle today.

PLUTO WATER

AMERICA'S LAXATIVE MINERAL WATER

WHEN NATURE WON'T, PLUTO WILL

Doctor H., Pa., says: "I consider Pluto Water a satisfactory saline eliminant and have used and recommended it for many years."

Doctor B., Cal., says: "Pluto Water is pleasant to take and is prompt and efficient in its action."

Doctor J., Mich., says: "The worth of Pluto Water as an effective laxative has been proven to me in the 35 years I have prescribed it."

Doctor C., Ill., says: "I find the use of Pluto Water beneficial in many intestinal disorders."

Doctor L., Md., says: "I prescribe Pluto Water for cases where non-irritating action of a saline mineral water laxative is indicated."

Doctor C., Mo., says: "Pluto water is quick in results."

Doctor L., N. Y., says: "Pluto Water is gentle and quick."

Doctor L., Ill., says: "I have used Pluto Water in my practice and always found it to be a very good laxative."

Doctor C., Cal., says: "I have prescribed Pluto Water for the past 30 years, with marked success."

Doctor S., Mass., says: "A saline water laxative retains water in the intestines. Pluto Water is the ideal saline water laxative."

Doctor C., Pa., says: "Pluto Water is gentle and pleasant in action—certain and quick in results."

Doctor S., Ill., says: "I find Pluto Water useful wherever active purgative is indicated."

Doctor M., Cal., says: "Americans are a constipated nation and Pluto well deserves the sobriquet, 'America's Physic'."

Doctor I., Ill., says: "In my 17 years' practice, I have prescribed Pluto Water and found it very efficacious."

Doctor J., Pa., says: "Pluto is always a safe, sane and efficacious antidote against the evils of constipation and resultant ailments."

Doctor F., Md., says: "Prompt elimination is accomplished by the use of a saline laxative. I prescribe Pluto Water for this."

Doctor D., Mo., says: "Pluto carries away waste preventing absorption of poisonous products of decomposition into the blood."

Doctor H., Ill., says: "I have used and recommended Pluto Water for 15 years and found it very efficacious."

Doctor H., Cal., says: "For 20 years I have prescribed Pluto Water and used it in my family."

Doctor B., Va., says: "Pluto Water dissolves wastes accumulated in the bowels and flushes them out of the system."

Doctor C., Mo., says: "Pluto prevents absorption of poisonous products of decomposition into the blood."

Doctor T., Pa., says: "Pluto Water by its prompt, non-irritant action gently flushes waste matter from the intestines."

Doctor G., Ill., says: "Pluto Water flushes the intestines clean of poisonous waste."

Doctor Z., Pa., says: "Pluto Water acts quickly yet gently and certainly in flushing waste from the system."

Doctor J., Pa., says: "Pluto Water is certain and quick in action."

Doctor M., Ill., says: "I have been recommending Pluto Water as my favorite in all cases of constipation for the past 20 years."

Doctor W., O., says: "I prescribe Pluto Water to remove accumulated wastes in the bowels and restore them to normal activity."

Doctor C., Pa., says: "Pluto Water is natural and definite in action—positive in results."

PROSPERITY IS SEEN BY BANKER

Chicago, Oct. 15 (AP)—Signs of the business trail reveal a period of "distinctly sane prosperity" just ahead, according to George Woodruff, prominent Chicago banker.

Woodruff, chairman of the board of the National Bank of the Republic, told delegates to the Grain and Feed Dealers' National Association's convention that his prediction was based upon a comparison of conditions following the depressions of 1907, 1914, 1920-21 and those apparent now.

"There were more reasons for predicting 'three long years of liquidation' in 1921 than now," the banker pointed out, "and business recovered quickly then."

Advantages of the current over preceding years of economic stress, he said, were the easiness of money, industrial peace and political stability.

BANK MAY NOT PAY FOR YEAR

Millbury, Oct. 15 (AP)—Some officials of Millbury Savings Bank said today there is little likelihood of depositors receiving any money from the bank this year.

Bank Commissioner Roy A. Hovey, in charge of the bank, said he was unable to say for what period it would be closed. It is agreed it will take months, possibly a year, to straighten out the mortgages and loans.

A large percentage of the deposits are in real estate loans, and some of them are involved in irregularities of the former treasurer, Ernest L. Smith, to such an extent that their value is questionable. However, Hovey and the bank officials, including Atty. Jay Clark, Jr., counsel for the trustees, claim the bank is solvent.

William W. Windle, new president of the bank, announced he would take care personally of all Christmas club accounts, amounting to about $30,000, and that these accounts would be paid in December.

Commissioner Hovey today answered the statement of Asst. U. S. Atty. Charles B. Rugg that he called the commissioner's attention to conditions at the bank three years ago.

"If Mr. Rugg knew of conditions or that anything was wrong it was up to him as district attorney to investigate," Mr. Hovey said.

Eugene O'Neill Ready to Start New Play

Tours, France, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Chauteau du Plessis, a castle hidden in the center of a large park on the northern slope of the valley of the Choisille, is the beauty spot Eugene O'Neill has selected to write his new play.

The American dramatist works mostly at night and keeps himself in the severest seclusion. Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill, the former Carlotta Monterey, have been residing here since the spring of 1929.

Cooking School Note by Mrs. Lilla Pauline Cross

In the cooking school I conducted under the auspices of the American recently, I stressed modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, I use and recommend CRISCO—for it's a modern shortening. MRS. LILLA PAULINE CROSS.

Did George Washington name it for a real Sally Lunn?

WHO was Sally Lunn? Some say she was George Washington's housekeeper—who made a certain hot-bread that was so good he gave it her name. Others say that Sally once sold these famous tea-cakes on the streets of Bath, England. At any rate, you've heard of Sally Lunns, but maybe you've never eaten the real one.

Here it is, straight from Virginia. A descendant of the first president's family gave me this recipe, with this improvement: she specifies Crisco, a modern shortening that tastes so sweet you just know it's bound to improve the flavor of anything you make with it.

SALLY LUNNS

¼ cup Crisco
½ cup sugar
2 eggs (beaten)
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
¾ cup milk

Cream Crisco and sugar together. Add beaten eggs and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with milk to the first mixture. Bake in a Criscoed shallow pan in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

HIGHLAND SCONES

This is a Caledonian hot-bread with an American accent—speed!

2 cups bread flour
½ cup milk
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons Crisco
Jam or marmalade
2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder

Blend Crisco with sifted dry ingredients. (No long process of cutting hard fat into the flour. Crisco is of workable consistency.) Stir in milk and eggs. Spoon dough onto oiled paper dusted with flour. Pat with hand to ¼ inch thickness. Spread jam or marmalade over half the dough, cover with other half and press gently together. Cut into squares and then crosswise to form triangles. Brush with milk to give a rich brown glaze, and bake in hot oven (450° F.) from 10 to 15 minutes. Serve while hot for tea or breakfast. (Omit sugar from recipe and spread dough with ¾ cup grated American or pimiento cheese instead of jam or marmalade and you'll have a delectable scone to serve with salad.)

Christmas Funds ↑ Maloney Delays
'Rah for Sharkey! Stribling Alone
Carnera, Too, Maybe ↓ Deaf to Charity

Latest on Two Big Charity Boxing Cards

Before sitting down to jab a few opinions of fighting in general and a few fighters in particular out of our battered old Remington, which is a glutton for punishment, we would like to doff our caubeen to Jack Sharkey, clout Young Stribling on the conk with a stout shillelah and turn a cold, watchful, alert eye on huge Primo Carnera and smiling faced Jimmy Maloney. We are inclined to hand Carnera as big a bouquet as Sharkey. The giant Italian apparently is acting in the same sportsmanly, charitable manner as our Squire of Chestnut Hills. But on second thought perhaps we better suspend judgment on big Primo until after the ink is dry on certain contracts binding him to meet Jim Maloney in a return match for the Christmas Fund in the Boston Garden on December 5. Those contracts haven't been signed yet. Carnera's manager has stated before witnesses the terms are acceptable, and has agreed to sign the contracts. But sometimes there's many a slip between the spoken promise and the written word.

George Underwood

Regarding genial young Mister Maloney who fought his way back into the hearts of the populace by standing up and exchanging man-sized dialogues for 10 rounds with the giant Carnera in as cockle-of-the-heart warming a shindy as has been seen since Dempsey and the Wild Bull of the Pampas staged that soul-stirring thriller, we will have to remain neutral for the present. Mr. Dan Carroll, Maloney's charge de affairs, wants time to think it over.

We met Mister Carroll by appointment in Matchmaker Alex MacLean's offices yesterday and in behalf of the Christmas Fund made what any fair-minded person would call an eminently fair and lucrative offer. Mister Carroll scratched his curly dome, repeated "I dunno, I dunno," a couple of hundred times, asked the wide world why Maloney should be called upon to lick Carnera again, threatened to be fair-minded one minute, only to get balky the next, and wound up by agreeing to meet us again Friday and give us a definite answer.

So until Friday there is nothing to do but lay off of Maloney, as they say in the best circles. Can't praise him or criticize him. He's in a neutral zone holding the white flag.

All we can say is, that if Dan Carroll, next Friday, is as fair as Carnera's managers so far apparently have been and Carnera's managers make good in writing what they agree to do over the telephone, boxing fans on December 5 will see the greatest heavyweight encounter ever staged in New England and perhaps the whole world, and thousands of dollars will be obtained to assure a Merry Christmas for thousands of Boston's poor.

REAL LOWDOWN

Let's turn the light of pitiless publicity on the boxing situation and the Merry Christmas outlook. As you know the country is facing a hard winter. Hard times are here and the outlook for an early return to normalcy is not bright. The percentage of those whom circumstances assure a Merry Christmas is smaller, much smaller than usual. The poor, as the goodbook says, we shall always have with us, but seldom in as great numbers as now.

Because of the gloomy outlook the HEARST PAPERS are going to make extraordinary efforts to swell the Christmas Funds and relieve the sufferings and condition of the poor.

In this neck of the woods the sporting department of THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN is endeavoring to arrange a Hundred Thousand Dollar Return Match between Carnera and Maloney, the pair which put up the greatest heavyweight fight ever staged in New England.

In New York, the sporting department of Mr. Hearst's NEW YORK AMERICAN seeks to stage a return match between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling.

Those are two great matches If they are made New York can congratulate Boston and Boston return the compliment Can any fan name any other match as attractive?

But neither match is yet made.

Carnera is willing and orally has accepted terms. Maloney wants to think it over.

Of the four principals in the two big matches only Sharkey looked Sweet Charity straight in the face, and figuratively said:

"Why certainly, Miss Charity, I'll be mighty glad to help you. I have a wife and children, and thank God I have money to give them a Merry Christmas. But I realize how many persons are out of work, how hard times are, and how many men, women and children are facing the gloomiest of Christmases. What can I do for you?"

Sharkey was told he could fight Stribling for twenty-five per cent for the Christmas Fund.

"All right," answered Jack. "Give me the contract."

Mind you, Sharkey is the man whom they have been in the habit of guaranteeing $100,000 in cold cash, with a privilege of much larger percentage.

Yet he did absolutely no quibbling or equivocating over the terms offered him by Damon Runyon, of THE NEW YORK AMERICAN, in behalf of the Christmas Fund.

"Give me the contract. Where will I sign?"

There spoke a man and a fighter!

STRIBLING'S WAY

How different was Young Stribling.

The man who Sharkey defeated turned up his nose at the same percentage that Sharkey accepted. He not only refused the twenty-five percent, but refused any percentage at all, coolly demanding a guarantee.

If we are not mistaken, Runyon agreed to guarantee Stribling $50,000, and Stribling flatly turned that down and demanded $65,000.

The only time Stribling made anywhere near $65,000 was when he fought and was beaten by Sharkey at Miami, the same Sharkey, who, for Sweet Charity, is willing to waive all guarantees and box for twenty-five per cent.

Stribling furthermore says that he doesn't want to box in New York, for the cards would be stacked for Sharkey. "I can't get a square deal in New York," says the chivalrous Southerner.

That's fine talk from Stribling, who always was given more than a square deal in New York. It is fine talk from Stribling when the whole coun-

SOCCER GAME POSTPONED

The American League soccer game between Fall River and Providence scheduled for Marks Stadium tonight has been postponed until tomorrow night at the request of Sam Marks, owner of the Fall River eleven.

In requesting that the game be postponed Marks stated that five of his star players, Alex McMan Jock McArthur, Billy McPherson Jerry Best and Charley McGill were ordered to return to Canada by the immigration officials of that country for an infraction of the laws on their entry here when they were returning from their European trip.

Owner Marks also stated that the infraction was a trivial matter. They returned to Canada last Monday night and were assured that they would be allowed to re-enter in time for the game to be played tomorrow night.

However, there is a possibility that they may be held some time and, as the quintet are all stars, their loss would be a big handicap to the American League champions. McNab, McArthur and McGill are all former Boston players and well known in this city.

Yale and Georgia to Play in 1931

Athens, Ga., Oct. 15 (AP)—The University of Georgia announced today that its football team would play Yale University in New Haven, Ct., on Oct. 10 next year, but would not engage Yale in 1932.

No game was arranged for 1932, it was explained, so that Yale could meet the University of Chicago. The Yale-Georgia series will be resumed in 1933.

Georgia defeated Yale this year to take the third game of the last four played.

Hole-in-One Creates Tie in Pro Golf

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 15 (AP)—Making a hole in one on the 176-yard seventh with a No. 2 iron, Ben MacDougall young professional from Mt. Kisco, N. Y., turned in a 35—37—72 today to tie for the lead among early finishers of the first 18 holes in the 36-hole qualifying play of the Metropolitan Professional Golfers' Association championship. Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., had the same score.

Grid Game Called Because of Rain

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The national professional football league game between the New York Giants and Chicago Cardinals, scheduled for tonight at the Polo Grounds, was postponed today until tomorrow night. Fear that today's rain might cripple the flood lighting system was given as the reason.

Heavy Hitters From Coast Will Strengthen Braves

The Braves will present a somewhat changed appearance next year. Jimmy Welsh and Bob Smith will play in other parts and several other veterans are due to depart in the near future.

Welsh goes to the Los Angeles club of the Coast League and Smith will be a member of Rogers Hornsby's rebuilt Cubs.

In return for these two veterans and a large cash payment, the Braves get Wesley Schulmerich, from Los Angeles, and Pitcher Bill McAfee, from the Cubs. Chicago had a string on Schulmerich and the whole transaction is really one trade with several angles. The Braves, too, have been granted an option on three other players now held by the Cubs.

Much is expected of Schulmerich, who was runner-up to Earl Sheely as swatting king of the Coast League. Sheely, who batted .411, is slated to play first base for the Braves next year, having been secured in the draft. Schulmerich who batted .387 and socked 28 homers, is expected to displace Lance Richbourg in right field.

McAfee, the new Braves twirler, is a product of the University of Michigan. The Braves tried to sign him up in 1929, when he finished his schooling, but the Cubs beat them to it. McAfee was shipped to the Reading club last summer for seasoning and made a good impression there. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds.

Tufts Begins Drive for Bowdoin Game

With only three days left, Head Coach Lew Manley of Tufts lost no time in starting to get the Tufts eleven ready for the Bowdoin game Saturday at Brunswick.

Today, it is likely that the varsity will scrimmage with team B and put into execution the new plays Manley gave them yesterday. Bob Abbott's junior varsity probably will face the freshman team coached by Chet Delano and Charles Considine. The freshmen undefeated to date, will meet Lawrence Academy in the first home game of the Brown and Blue season.

The Tufts team will leave for Brunswick Friday.

GAGNON SEEKS CLEAN VICTORY

Jack Gagnon cannot be convinced that he wasn't robbed of the decision when he last met Con O'Kelley, the big Irish mauler, and intends to rectify this reverse by hammering out a clean-cut win over O'Kelley when they fight again at the Boston Arena next Tuesday night.

O'Kelley's first conquest when landing on these shores from the Old Country was over Gagnon.

Gagnon has taken a step up the heavyweight ladder since he first met the Smiling Irishman by licking Tuffy Griffith, one of the best of the crop.

While the main bout should be quite a muss due to the prospects of a "grudge" fight, the semifinal should also produce some action with the big Mack House from California meeting Bill Hartwell of Kansas City.

Harvard's Chances Depend on Condition of Cripples

All is quiet on Harvard'ss football front today, following Head Coach Arnold Horween's decision to suspend scrimmage for this week across the Charles.

Long periods of individual instruction, with demonstrations of Army plays will occupy the Cantab gridsters' practice hours from now until Army rolls into town.

Faced with the choice of scrimmaging the Harvard eleven into condition, or risking further injuries to his brittle and untested players, Horween has ordered a rest.

This means that Bernie White, varsity fullback, who will start against Army in his first game this season, will get no contact work until the referee's whistle blows Saturday.

Eddie Mays, Harvard's brilliant halfback, is another who will start in the Army battle, and Mays has had no contact work for two weeks. It is even possible that Mays may not last long in the clash with the Cadets, for Horween has Dartmouth to consider.

Hard to Foretell Harvard Starting Lineup

Guessing the Harvard starting lineup becomes more complex as game time draws nearer. At least three Harvard varsity players are destined to sit on the bench Saturday. They are: Bus Talbot, Harvard's first string guard; Charlie Devens, the Crimson lateral pass threat, and probably Frank Kales, first string tackle.

Though Horween has now a full backfield roster with the exception of Charlie Devens, the Crimson backfield situation is dubious. Eddie Mays, Bernie White and Jack Crickard have all returned to practice, but their physical condition is a matter of speculation.

Bob Ogden, first string end, is still in street clothes since his last injury, and there is some doubt about his starting Saturday. Vahan Moushegian appears in Ogden's place at right end.

Horween's Chief Problem Is With the Line

Horween's chief problem this week is with his line. Several conspicuous gaps remain to be filled, notably in the tackle berths. At present, pending the return of Frank Kales at right tackle, George Kuehn has been assigned this berth, while Fred Richards is at left tackle.

Henry Myerson fills at left guard in place of Bus Talbot, and Horween is breathing somewhat easier. Myerson is equally good at tackle or guard, and his versatility may be the saving of Harvard Saturday.

One of the greatest football offensive battles ever witnessed in the Stadium will be uncovered Saturday, from present indications. The Cantabs cannot hope to hold the Army scoreless, and must depend on matching point for point to pull through in the win column.

ONLY ONE OF LAST YEAR'S LINE MISSING; MEDFORD BOY IN BACKFIELD

By BILL GRIMES

Under its new mentor, Maj. Ralph Sasse, West Point will wind up its strenuous preparation for Harvard this afternoon on the Plains, for at noon, tomorrow, the Army squad will depart for Cambridge.

Despite all rumors to the contrary, West Point will be represented by a veteran aggregation in the Stadium. With the exception of George Perry, the giant Kentuckian, who was at right tackle last season, every lineman who started against Harvard is still enrolled at the academy. Polly Humber, Loren Hillsinger, Jack Price and Paul Miller are on the hospital list but, in all probability, will be in action on Saturday. Wendall Bowman, who was injured in the Stadium game a year ago, and Roy Stecker are also said to be hors de combat at this writing.

The Army has been bemoaning the fact that they lost their entire first string backfield unit, Chris Cagle, John Murrill, Dick O'Keefe and Herb Gibner. But they have had little to say as to the ball carriers acquired from last year's plebe team.

The Army is famous for its ability to execute maneuvers but one of the greatest of all troop movements was the one which brought about the immediate replacement of Cagle, Murrill, O'Keefe and Gibner by Ed Herb, formerly of Colgate; Cy Letzelter, Carnegie Tech; Ken Fields, Illinois, and Joe McWilliam, New York Military Academy.

Cy Letzelter Will Prove Dangerous to Harvard

There are no less than 18 members of the class of 1933 on the first squad at the Point. Outstanding among the newcomers is Cy Letzelter, who starred in the Carnegie Tech backfield for three years, during which time he had the unique distinction of scoring two touchdowns against Notre Dame, a hitherto unparalleled feat.

Letzelter was rated as one of the greatest in the game while carrying on for Carnegie Tech and from his play this season, he has retained the old spark and will prove a dangerous foe for the Crimson. He is just short of six feet and packs 165 pounds.

One of Letzelter's back field running mates is Ed Herb, well known in this vicinity for his performance for Medford high, which he represented for five years. Herb was two years at Colgate before he received his appointment to West Point, and played on his freshman team and then grabbed a berth on the varsity in the fall of 1928.

Ken Fields, who is now a fullback, won his letter at the University of Illinois as a quarterback. Fields is light for a fullback, weighing only 168 but he has experienced little trouble catching the first team.

Jim McWilliam is giving Wendall Bowman and "Red" Carver a battle for the field general assignment. Bowman and Carver are veterans but the former New York Military Academy star, is rapidly gaining recognition.

Cadets Have Strong Backfield Subs

For backfield replacements, there are at least two of last year's plebes, who have the first call. Henry Sebastian, who played freshman football at Southern Methodist University two years ago, and Bill Frentzel, another Illini, have received their baptism at the Point against B. U., Furman and Swarthmore, during which games they both performed creditably. Tom Kilday, a transfer from St. Edward's College, in Texas, is a six foot 180 pound fullback, with possibilities.

Jack Armstrong, who is a Long Island, N. Y., boy, and a fine all around athlete, stepped into the gap caused by the graduation of George Perry. Armstrong is the second biggest man on the Army team, standing over 6 feet, and tips the scales at 215, just five pounds shy of Jack Price.

Then, there area pair of ends, Paul Burlingame and Dick King, who are built along the lines of Eddie Messinger and Carl Carlmark, the veteran flankmen. Fur

Racketeers Attempt to Make 'Killing' at Jamaica

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

FAVORITE IN FEATURE WAS POISONED

By TOM THORP

New York, Oct. 15 (INS)—The racketeers have invaded the turf sport. An attempt by these despised criminals to make a killing in the running of the Medford Claiming Handicap, the feature of the card at Jamaica yesterday, was frustrated when the odds-on favorite, Valour II belonging to W. T. (Fatty) Anderson, collapsed in his stall as the result of being poisoned by chloral.

As a result of the scandal the local jockey club officials ordered all further entries by W. T. Anderson and his trainer, T. D. Grimes, refused until after a thorough investigation of the poisoning has been made.

The Pinkerton detectives began questioning those associated with the racing stable. They expect to uncover leads which will cause the capture of the culprits.

Not the First Poisoning

This is not the first instance of an attempt at poisoning. Last Saturday an investigation was started as to the likelihood of one of Robert L. Gerry's thoroughbreds having been tampered with.

The fact the latter is a member of the Jockey Club caused those in authority to keep the investigation a profound secret. However, news of it leaked out when the latest turf scandal broke here yesterday. It is said the same individuals connected with a "doping case" a few months ago are involved in this latest criminal work.

The poisoning of Valour is one of the most damaging scandals which has ever taken place in American racing. It is the first time in the history of the sport, as conducted under Jockey Club supervision, that a positive case of poisoning was uncovered.

Many suspicious cases have arisen in the past. No concrete evidence such as the present case was ever uncovered before.

MRS. HILL 1 UP IN WOMEN'S GOLF

Los Angeles Country Club, Los Angeles, Oct. 15 (AP)—Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, medalist, was one up on Mrs. Brent Potter of San Jose, at the end of nine holes in today's second round of the women's national amateur golf championship.

They halved the first four holes of their match, taking par fives on the first and second. Each went one over on the par four third and the short fourth was halved in par 3.

Mrs. Hill went one up with a birdie four on the fifth and she increased the lead with a par four on the next hole. Mrs. Potter won the seventh with a par four when she was on in two and laid a 50-footer dead.

Mrs. Hill missed an eight-foot putt for a half. They halved the eighth and ninth with sixes and threes, respectively.

Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. J., was four up on Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia when they reached the first turn. Miss Orcutt had 40, while her opponent took 45 strokes.

Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, medalist, finished the first nine one up on Mrs. Brent Potter of San Jose. Mrs. Hill had a 40 to 41 for her opponent.

Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, held a one-up lead on Miss Marion Hollins, Santa Cruz, at the ninth. Miss Van Wie posted a 40 to 41 for Miss Hollins.

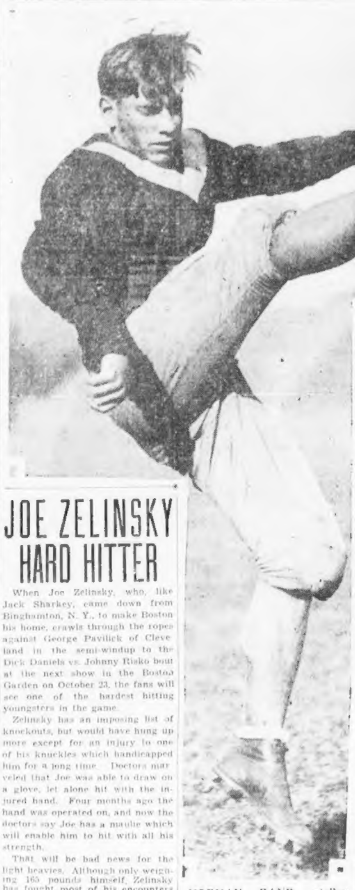
SALEM'S GRID HERO LAID LOW



NORMAN RAND, stellar Salem high back, whose elbow was chipped in the Brockton game, and whose loss to the team for the Mt. Vernon, N. Y., game on Saturday may cause his team to suffer its first defeat.

JOE ZELINSKY HARD HITTER

When Joe Zelinsky, who, like Jack Sharkey, came down from Binghamton, N. Y., to make Boston his home, crawls through the ropes against George Pavilick of Cleveland in the semi-windup to the Dick Daniels vs. Johnny Risko bout at the next show in the Boston Garden on October 23, the fans will see one of the hardest hitting youngsters in the game.

Zelinsky has an imposing list of knockouts, but would have hung up more except for an injury to one of his knuckles which handicapped him for a long time. Doctors marveled that Joe was able to draw on a glove, let alone hit with the injured hand. Four months ago the hand was operated on, and now the doctors say Joe has a maulie which will enable him to hit with all his strength.

That will be bad news for the light heavies. Although only weighing 165 pounds himself, Zelinsky has fought most of his encounters with the 175 pounders.

Zelinsky's last fight, four months ago, was with Abie Bain, who now is matched to meet Maxey Rosenbloom for the light heavyweight title in New York. Zelinsky floored Bain in the opening round, but put his injured hand out of commission and had to finish the fight with one hand.

Schoolboy Chatter

There is more misery these days in the historic town of Salem than ever prevailed when the witches rode their aerial brooms. For Norman Rand is injured.

Rand is the star of the Salem high school football team. He's a hero in that North Shore hamlet where the local high school team is considered Notre Dame, Yale and Fordham all rolled into one and where the populace turns out in toto for all the high school clashes.

Salem and Mt. Vernon meet on Saturday and expects to win without Rand. For it is definitely known that Normie won't be able to play. What the Salem fans are worrying about is whether or not he'll be ready to face Lynn English and Tony Geniawicz on November 8.

The Lynn English vs. Salem meeting will be in the Lynn Stadium. As the schoolboy leaders now shape up this game will determine the state champion. Tony Geniawicz will be leading Lynn English and Salem is hoping that Normie Rand will be ready to face the great Shoe City star.

Bernie Kilroy, center on the Boston College championship outfit two years back—Joe McKenney's first team at the Heights—is another Eagle graduate who is making good in coaching ranks. Bernie is directing Natick. His team gets the big test next Saturday when it faces Dedham High. Dedham, by the way, is also under the tutelage of a Boston College man, Jack Heaphy.

A doubleheader is on the books tomorrow afternoon at the Fens Stadium when Commerce clashes with East Boston and Hyde Park tackles Brighton.

After those holiday clashes, in which some upsets were registered, it is hard to dope the Greater Boston School standings. Tomorrow's twin-bill is no exception. Both games should be close. Hyde Park has an edge on Brighton but Commerce and East Boston are rather evenly matched.

ARMY VETS TO FACE HARVARD

lingame spent a year at the University of Louisville, while King was a football and baseball letter man at Citadel College before he went "army."

Joe Evans, well known in Rhode Island for his gridiron prowess while playing for Moses Brown Academy, is battling Paul Miller and Aaron Lazar for centre. The fight for the pivot berth between this trio of six footers promises to continue throughout the season despite the fact that Miller and Lazar have two and one years' experience respectively, under their belts.

"College Tourist" May Play at Left Tackle Post

Larry Lincoln, who must be a college tourist of the first water, having enrolled at George Washington University, Western State Teachers College and Ferris Institute, before becoming a "dumbjohn" has attracted Coach Sasse's attention and has been played at left tackle, replacing Jack Price, the giant Iowan.

Although Milton Summerfelt and Bob Gallagher, guards on the 1933 class team, have no chance of displacing Polly Humber or Loren Hillsinger, they are handy men to have available in a pinch, as are Bill Senter, a centre, Millard Haskin, tackle and Bill Quinn an end, all of whom are making their debut with the varsity.

Naturally Chris Cagle and John Murrill will be missed by the Army but with Cy Letzelter and Ed Herb carrying on in place of that pair of old Army stars, West Point's maneuver which swung the former Carnegie Tech and Colgate gridsters into action as soon as Cagle and Murrill had beat a retreat, was one of the best ever made by any man's army.

Harvard-Michigan Applications Close

Applications for the Harvard-Michigan football game will close at the offices of the Harvard Athletic Association at 6 o'clock tonight it was announced last night by Carroll Getchell, business manager of the Harvard Athletic Association.

CHAMPIONS IN HORSE SHOW AT GARDEN

Close to 400 horses, representing the foremost stables of America, will be seen in action in nearly 125 classes when the Boston Horse show opens its five-day exhibition at Boston Garden, October 28, to run through November 1. Nearly every champion of each division of the horse show world will appear to defend his or her laurels in the big Garden ring.

Besides the international military jumping competitions, in which five army teams will compete—United States, Irish Free State, Germany, Sweden and Canada—there will be an exhibition drill by a representative squad of the Boston Mounted Police on the evening of Oct. 29.

The German Army team will arrive in Boston on Sunday, having left Germany on Oct. 8 aboard the S. S. Cleveland. The four officers, considered the best riders in the German Army, are bringing with them eight of the foremost jumping horses in Germany. The invading team is headed by Capt. Baron von Waldenfels, who has with him as associate riders Lieut. Momm, Lieut. Hasse and Lieut. Baron von Nagel.

Among the leading stables with national reputations which have entered for the Boston show are those of Mrs. John Tupper Cole of Fort Monmouth, N. J.; G. Berry Beaumont of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; William Buchsbaum of Spring Lake, N. J.; John A. Thompson of Chicago; Alasa Farms of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah G. Strong of Alton, N. Y.; Mrs. Clarke T. Baldwin of Warrenton, Va.; Woodridge Farms of Huntington Valley, Pa.; Mrs. William Roth of Redwoods, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore's Seaton Hackney Farm of Morristown, N. J., and a host of others.

Many Greater Boston Exhibitors Listed

ITALIAN GIANT ON MAT CARD

The fever for giants which hit the heavyweight boxing ranks with some success of late has reached wrestling circles.

The first of the baby whales to make an appearance on the mat will be Rosario Impellitier, 285-pound Italian, who grapples with Jack Rushell of Canada in one of the matches on Paul Bowser's first show of the season at the Arena tomorrow night.

Little is known of Impellitier's wrestling ability, but he is big and strong and his weight should make up for any lack of ability.

Renato Gardini, once an idol of Italian mat fans in this town, discovered Impellitier and expects his ponderous protege to some day receive the cheers that he did when in his prime.

Jack Sherry, who has shown here before, will meet Paul Finsky, a newcomer from Poland. Marin Plestina will match muscles with Lee Wykoff, former college football star. Karavas, Greek lightweight, will meet Jack Bruce of Springfield in another go.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

It was summer and Mr. Boston was in New York. The walks and streets had been baked by a terrific heat wave.

Mr. Boston was informed that William F. Carey, millionaire president of Madison Square Garden, was seriously ill. He had been stricken the night of the Sharkey-Schmeling bout.

Jack Conway

Mr. Boston had first met Carey when the latter promoted the Sharkey-Stribling bout at Miami Beach, Fla., a year ago last winter in conjunction with Jack Dempsey. He liked Carey from the start. The man who stepped into Tex Rickard's shoes was honest, forceful and always considerate of persons with whom he came in contact.

So Mr. Boston, when he heard that Bill Carey was ill, hurried to the latter's New York penthouse, on top of a hotel in the Sixties.

There was a hush in Carey's apartment. Doctors and nurses were busy caring for the Garden president who was running a high temperature.

Mr. Boston shook Carey's perspiring hand and was alarmed when he took a look at the patient's chart.

Then Came a Telephone Call From Mother

Ting-a-ling!

It was the telephone. A nurse answered.

"You say this is Mrs. Carey speaking?" said the nurse.

"That's mother, nurse," declared Carey. "Don't tell her I'm sick. Tell her to hold the line and I'll talk to her in a minute."

The nurse put down the receiver.

"You cannot leave your bed to talk to anybody, Mr. Carey," she declared.

"It would be dangerous for you to get up even for a minute, Mr. Carey," advised the doctor. "You are a very sick man."

"But I don't want mother to know I'm a sick man," replied the Garden head. "It would upset her. Come, nurse, let me have my bathrobe and slippers."

A few minutes later Bill Carey, on the arm of his nurse, walked to the telephone. He sat down a second. He then got complete control of himself.

"Hello, mother," he fairly shouted. "How are you? No, I'm not sick. Just a little cold and I'm staying in for a few days. Don't worry about me. I'm all right. Now get to bed yourself, mother, as it is getting late. I'll be down to see you in a few days."

Bill Carey hung up the receiver and his head dropped forward.

"Did my voice sound all right?" he asked Mr. Boston. "I shouted as loud as I could as I didn't want mother to know how weak and sick I am."

Mother's Picture in His Garden Office

A few days later I noticed a sketch of Mrs. Carey in the Garden president's office. It was the only picture in the place. It was made by Ray Shanahan, famous artist.

When Carey was able to go out again, doctors told him he needed a change of scenery.

George Underwood has told me how Carey's happiest days were spent sitting with his mother on the little piazza in front of her home. The great railroad engineer was to her only her boy as he told her his experiences as an engineer in all parts of the world.

Bill Carey went back to Hoosick Falls again the other day. In the same train with him was the body of "mother." She had met death in an automobile accident while visiting her son at his Summer Home outside New York.

The Bill Carey who made the sad trip back to Hoosick Falls was as brave as he was the day in his sick room when he tried to hide his illness from "mother," but those who know him realize his big Irish heart was breaking as he took "mother" into their family home and from there to the Catholic church where services were held before the final journey to the little cemetery.

Mr. Boston and a lot of other folks bow their heads with Bill Carey in his hour of sorrow.

Mr. Boston Is Off to Shoot Birds and Golf

Mr. Boston, weighed down by golf clubs and hunting equipment, bid the gang in the sporting department adieu for two weeks today.

"Am starting the well known vacation," said the veteran. "Maybe I'll be able to bring down a few birds and also crash some of my spoon shots right up on the green.

"You may be sure, however, that I'll keep out in the wide open places far away from everything in connection with professional sports.

McCarthy to Get $35,000 a Year as Pilot of Yankees

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

NEW MANAGER EXPECTED TO DISPLACE VETERAN COACH OF TEAM, O'LEARY

New York, Oct. 15 (US)—Amid the booming of flashlights and the trite "talkie" chatter that recorded the event for posterity, Joseph Vincent McCarthy and Col. Jacob Ruppert took each other for better or worse for the next two years, during which McCarthy will attempt to restore the glory that was the Yankees in days gone by.

The contract was a real one and was legally inked right out there in the open before a horde of baseball writers and camera gunners. The terms were not disclosed, but it is believed that McCarthy is to get not less than $35,000 and possibly much more in 1932, depending, of course, on his showing as a reconstructionist.

"All I can say," McCarthy commented, "is that I have received the best contract I ever had in baseball."

Inasmuch as the former Cub leader's earnings as manager of the Chicago Club were in the neighborhood of $[illegible],000 a year, plus a percentage of the club profits, it is assumed that Colonel Ruppert has [illegible] the hand [illegible] thing [illegible].

The fate of Bob Shawkey, the "going manager," remains in doubt.

"I certainly feel that Shawkey did a good job with the material he had," was Ruppert's comment, "and I intend to help him place himself. I have seen him only once since the season closed but in a few days we will have a talk.

"I appreciate Shawkey's position," he said, "but I felt I could not let this opportunity to obtain an experienced team builder and leader. Shawkey lacked this experience. Perhaps he will develop qualities that will make me sorry for letting him go. I see where it has been reported that I offered Bob an extension of his contract last summer. That is not true. He spoke to me once about it but nothing was done. I'll say this, however, I had contemplated no change up to the time McCarthy became available."

McCarthy to Announce Plans in Spring

The new Yankee pilot said he would not be able to discuss his plans until after he had familiarized himself with the material at hand and coming up next Spring.

"You know," he said with a grin, "I am not very familiar with American League talent and I haven't pleasant recollections of what I saw a year ago in the World's series."

McCarthy probably will bring Jimmy Burke here as his first lieutenant in the field and that undoubtedly means the passing of Charley O'Leary, who has been a coach for the Yankees since 1915. Arthur Fletcher will remain "if he cares to," according to McCarthy.

Malden to Fete Manchester Team

Malden school and city officials are planning to give a reception and banquet to the Manchester, N. H., football team and the school and city officials who accompany the team to Malden on Oct. 25.

Malden's team and followers were entertained when the teams clashed at Manchester a year ago and Malden plans to return the compliment this year.

Light Heavies Will Feature 'Pure' Show

Light heavyweights will feature the St. Joseph's T. A. S. amateur boxing show at Mechanics Building on Saturday.

Other [illegible] on the card are 1[illegible], 12[illegible], 13[illegible], 14[illegible] and 160 pounds.

B. [illegible] Cadde, director of the St. Joes, [illegible] promises that the most likely looking boxers will be picked to represent America in an international carnival, to be held this winter.

M'CARTHY SIGNS TO BOSS YANKS

JOE McCARTHY COL. RUPPERT ED BARROW

FOR A SMALL FORTUNE. Joe McCarthy, former manager of the Cubs, who was "fired" by Owner Wrigley, signs to handle the Yankee reins in 1931. Joe is said to be getting $35,000 a year and wrote his name to a two-year contract. Joe was quite indignant upon being deposed in Chicago after much success. But he has a twinkle of joy in his eye as he signs, while Col. Jake Ruppert and Secretary Ed Barrow also seem to be pleased.

George Lott, Court Star, a Benedict

Elkton, Md., Oct. 15 (AP).—Traveling by automobile, George Martin Lott, Davis Cup tennis star, and Miss Abigail Stapleford Allen arrived here early yesterday afternoon, secured a license and were married by the Rev. Edward Minor. They departed immediately after the ceremony. Their destination was not known.

Lott in the license gave his age as 23 and his address Chicago. His bride said she was 21 and that her home was at Abington, a suburb of Philadelphia.

Crosley-Gachon Lead Montreal Bike Race

Montreal, Oct. 15 (AP)—Pierre Gachon, Montreal, and Al Crossley, Boston, regained the lead at the beginning of the [illegible] day of Montreal's [illegible] International Six Day Bicycle Race [illegible] they gained two [illegible] after [illegible] to lead the field of 11 teams [illegible].

Horder and Elder [illegible] place [illegible] with Spattia and Ben Zatto [illegible] than the [illegible] but well ahead [illegible] leading the field with 171.

Friends Pay Honor to Giant Santa

[illegible]

"I am willing," he said, "to meet all comers in the ring in a square, honest contest and let the better man be declared the victor."

New York, Oct. 15.—"You dassent make any mistakes," quoth Mr. Johnny Attell, speaking to me of boxing conditions the other night, especially with reference to the small clubs.

Mr. Attell [illegible] a [illegible] clubber [illegible] turned to the [illegible] over yonder in Brooklyn, a small club that has always been one of the steadiest money getters in [illegible].

Just how a matchmaker can tell mistakes in advance [illegible] Mr. Attell failed to [illegible]. If he could [illegible] he wouldn't [illegible] matchmaker [illegible]?

Well, anyway, Mr. Attell says you dassent make any.

Mr. Attell has been complaining [illegible] that [illegible] in boxing [illegible] have been bringing on from [illegible] the boxing [illegible] lately.

It [illegible] me the [illegible] condition [illegible] halcyon days of four or five years ago [illegible] that have [illegible].

In other words [illegible] the gates of today seem small as compared to the gates of some years ago, but proportionately to the changed conditions they are large enough, or would be large enough if the game attracted [illegible] in these times.

Maloney-Carnera Bout Drew $46,000 Gate

[illegible] Carnera and Maloney drew $[illegible] recently and [illegible] was disappointing [illegible] that it was a mighty big gate for this attraction or for any other attraction in a town the size of Boston, especially when you consider that it was the second largest gate ever drawn in Boston.

You see, boxing had [illegible]

[illegible]

I say to you, that when a boxing show draws $50,000 today, it is just as much, times considered, as $1[illegible] five or six years ago during the gold rush. The $750,000 pulled in by the terrible Sharkey man and Herr Max Schmeling last June was proportionately to conditions, as much as the greatest gates of the time of the delirium.

[illegible]

Sharkey Could Make $200,000 Without Trouble

The Sharkey-Campolo fight [illegible] conducted in the [illegible] would have made a little [illegible] But Sharkey is one of the [illegible] who [illegible] conditions, and the [illegible] Campolo instance, [illegible] to forget for a moment that the [illegible]

[illegible] $200,000 in the next [illegible] but he would rather [illegible] $100,000 in one [illegible] amount [illegible] financial past and [illegible] tries to catch up with the present, [illegible] be too late.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" Fans

Here's the Answer to your Question.

Every day, the letters pour in. "How does O. G. get that way? Why does O. G. always win? You've proved they do . . . tell us why?"

Well, fans . . . Just read this story and see why OLD GOLD always comes out on top.

Why does OLD GOLD always Win . . .

in every Public Taste-Test of the 4 Leading Cigarette Brands?

By ROBERT RIPLEY, himself

"WELL, OLD GOLD has won again! This time with expert tea-tasters. Men whose taste sense decides $60,000,000 worth of tea purchases every year.

"No wonder you ask 'Give [illegible] the low-down.' No wonder you [illegible] to know why OLD GOLD always wins.

"Believe it or not, OLD GOLD wins because it was deliberately tailored to the taste of American smokers! It was born in a taste-test!

"Long before OLD GOLD ever appeared on the market, Lorillard took every other brand and a dozen blends of its own . . . wrapped them all in plain white paper . . . and asked American smokers to judge the best.

"One blend of Lorillard's simply ran away with the vote. Won in every taste-test. That blend became OLD GOLD. And it still wins in public taste-tests because it is the only cigarette deliberately planned to bring smoke enjoyment to American smokers!"

HERE'S FINAL SCORE! Audited by J. S. M. Goodloe, Certified Public Accountant. OLD GOLD Won 40% of the first choices. Brand X, 13%. Brand Y, 20%; Brand Z, 27%. Total 100%.

SPEED BOATS SET RECORDS

Middletown, Ct., Oct. 15—Nine new records, one of which was superseded later in the day, were established by outboard motor boats who competed in the Eastern and National championships on the Connecticut river in races against time.

Dr. I. R. Newberger of Bedford [illegible] set a new mark of 43.75 miles an hour for class C, division 1, but his record was bettered later by Walter Kopke of Essex, Ct., who attained a speed of 45.107 miles an hour.

The other new records made are:

Class A, division 3, Miss Hilda Mueller, Bay City, Mich., 32.29 miles an hour.

Class B, division 2, Walter Janko[illegible], Locust Valley, N. Y., 42.15 miles an hour.

Class [illegible], division 3, Frank Sheehy, [illegible], 45.51 miles an hour.

Class D, division 1, J. P. Ellis, [illegible] Big Moose, N. Y., 46.891 miles an hour.

[illegible] high your hands should be at the top of the back swing depends on several factors. They should be as high as you can get them and keep all [illegible] action [illegible] yourself. By that it is meant that a high elevation of the hands will be meaningless and useless if, in attaining it, you sway your body, lift your head or accumulate rigidity throughout. The upward elevation of the left arm, which most governs the back swing, need have as its limit only [illegible] reaching extremity defined by its length so long as you pivot [illegible] to accommodate the high [illegible]. Chimp Quits Under Third Degree

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Following the killing of "The Edgewater Kid," a member of Goldie Gorto's North Side gang, Kinks King, leader of the rival West Side gang, is murdered. Evidence points to Goldie but crooked politics prevent his arrest. To satisfy the public Polack Annie, the Kid's woman and formerly Kinks's, is arrested. When the Police Chief refuses to release Annie, Goldie creates havoc by destroying public property. Later he raids the jail and kidnaps Annie. The police give chase. As they close in Goldie throws a twenty-dollar gold piece at the chief, striking him in the eye, and escapes. Police chief enters a pact with Kinks's successor to clean up the Gorto's gang.

"Goldie got these bulls hopped," he meditated.

Then little things began to bother Chimp. The first of these was when the lockup keeper glanced at his shoes and suggested:

"How about a little shine, Chimp?"

[illegible] But he never got them back. Whenever he asked for them the lockup would apologize and Chimp could hear [illegible] outside.

Greek Holiday

"I'm tellin' you for the last time. Go out and get Chimp's shoes for him, he'll catch cold this way. I got orders to treat him extra nice."

PROTECTED HEALTH OF PUBLIC

His Place as Director of Sanitary Engineering Goes to A. D. Weston

After 45 years of service to the State of Massachusetts X. Henry Goodnough, chief engineer of the department of public health and one of the leading experts on sanitary engineering in the country, will retire this month, it was announced today.

His place will be taken by Arthur D. Weston, who has been on the engineering staff of the Department since 18[illegible].

It was also announced that Edward Wright of Dedham had been appointed sanitary engineer for the department.

Goodnough's engineering career began in 1883 when he started in railroad work after his graduation from Harvard. His service to the State began in 188[illegible] when he became connected with the Massachusetts Drainage Commission.

In 18[illegible] he was appointed Chief Engineer of the Board of Health and he remained in that position until 1914 when he was appointed chief engineer and director of the of the Department of the Public Health.

During these years his work was most important in the development of sanitary laws aimed at the protection of public health. He was the father of the project which brought the waters of Ware and Swift rivers into Boston and the Metropolitan District for water supply purposes.

SIX YEARS FOR AUTO DRIVER

Two sentences totalling from six to 10 years in State Prison were imposed today in Superior Court on John J. Gleason, former inmate of Concord Reformatory and convicted driver of a stolen automobile that killed John F. Hurley, 25, former Boston College track star.

Hurley, a brother of Joseph [illegible] Hurley, chairman of the Boston School Committee, was in the car of Mark Crehan, former Boston College varsity football man, when it was struck on Sept. 7 by the machine driven by Gleason and stolen from Marie L. Harpin of 2 Johnson st., Lynn.

On an indictment charging manslaughter, Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall sentenced Gleason from [illegible] to [illegible] years at hard labor and on an indictment charging larceny of the automobile imposed a similar sentence.

The chief justice refused the request of defence counsel to order the sentences served concurrently.

"I do not see," said Chief Justice Hall, "how a man can serve two sentences at hard labor at the same time. If I had been going to give one single sentence I would have made that one longer."

LAST DAY TO REGISTER IN BOSTON

YOU ARE A SLACKER UNLESS YOU REGISTER AND VOTE

Be a Good Citizen, Not a Slacker!

The people of Massachusetts soon will elect an United States Senator, their Governor, their Legislature, their State and county officials.

They will decide upon numerous questions of important public policy, ranging from repeal of the State's prohibition code to public ownership of the Boston Elevated Street Railway.

All elections are important; this one, in this day of economic and political uncertainty, is EXCEEDINGLY SO.

Under the American system of government, every citizen is given the choice of GOVERNING or of BEING GOVERNED.

To govern, a citizen must vote. To vote, he must register.

The time in which to register, to qualify to govern, is rapidly drawing to a close. In the city of Boston, for example, it will end today, October 15.

The citizen who fails to register and to cast his vote for the candidates in whom he has confidence and for the causes he believes to be right, surrenders his sovereignty and submits himself to the rule of others.

In war time, the citizen who evades his military obligations earns the contempt of his fellow-man as a slacker.

In peace time, his obligation is equally fundamental, and if he fails to register and to vote he equally deserves the disdain of his fellow-citizens who are themselves faithful to this obligation.

Theodore Roosevelt said:

> "We pretend to be the masters, we, the people, and if we permit ourselves to be ill-served, to be served by corrupt and incompetent and inefficient men, then on our own heads must the blame rest."

Roosevelt knew your power, as he knew your obligation.

If you are to exert that power, if you are to discharge that obligation, if you prefer governing to being governed, you will REGISTER NOW, WITHOUT DELAY.

BIG INCREASE IN DRUNKEN DRIVING; 5381 CAUGHT IN YEAR

FALL IS MOST HAZARDOUS, PARKER SAYS

Registrar Urges Motorists to Shun Rum; Gain Is Made Despite Severer Courts

Drunken driving is increasing in Massachusetts according to figures made public today by George A. Parker, registrar of motor vehicles.

Last year the licenses of 5381 [illegible] as compared with [illegible] [illegible]

CAUSE IS MYSTERIOUS

"I regret to report," said Mr. Parker, "that the cases of persons operating while under the influence of liquor have increased in spite of the vigilance of the police and the courts.

"It is difficult to put your finger on the exact cause. It may be due to the fact that there are a great many more operators than there were a few years ago. The total registration of automobiles in Massachusetts in 1930 was 7,025,678.

"I do know that the police and the courts are co-operating in every possible way and are treating the cases of those found operating under the influence of liquor with far less sympathy than marked the disposition of such cases some years back.

LEAVES, DARK EARLY

"Autumn with its carpeting of leaves on roads, early dusk, football crowds and patronage of night clubs is marked by increased peril and calls for added caution. Too much stress cannot be placed on the danger of attempting to drive a car while under the influence of liquor. We are dealing with such offenders with the severity that they deserve."

Radcliffe-Harvard Play Banned as Too Naughty

Dean Bernice V. Brown, dean for Concord Cases at Radcliffe College, refused last night to grant permission for a joint Radcliffe and Harvard production of Molnar's play "Olympia."

"Entirely too naughty for college boys and girls to produce," declared Dean Brown, and she was upheld in her decision by four faculty members at Radcliffe. "It is really the worst play I have ever read."

Later today Dean Brown gave out a statement [illegible]

"I decline to approve Molnar's 'Olympia' for an idler performance because I find it thoroughly dull and with a plot unsuited to amateur production," she said. "Before making this decision I asked several other people, including present and former students of Harvard and Radcliffe, to read the play. Their opinion was that it was not worth giving."

The play was scheduled for Nov. 6 and 7 and this was to have been [illegible] running into bad luck lately with their plays. This is the second play that has caused censors' eyes to [illegible] Mayor Nichols ordered their [illegible]

CLUB STAR IN MET REVUE

Mabel Albertson

Mabel Albertson who is entertaining patrons of the Metropolitan is a night club star of the first magnitude. For two years she was mistress of ceremonies at the Fifth Avenue Club in New York and also played engagements at the Chateau Madrid, the Embassy Club and Pavilion Royale. Miss Albertson's engagement at the Les Ambassadeurs in New York during which time she played with Jackson, Clayton and Durante was a success and brought her into prominence to such an extent that she was given a role in the motion picture "Gang War."

Following this picture she sang for a season at the Colony Theatre, New York. Miss Albertson sings numbers written especially for her by Jack Meskill, the composer of the new Ziegfeld show, among them being the popular "Can't Say No."

"The best friend a progressive merchant in any line can have is a progressive banker. And never has the courage and sound judgment of all bankers played a more important part than it will be called on to play during the next six months.

"Of the 705 new dealers Willys-Overland has added to its organization since the first of the year, scarcely a single one [illegible] have been possible without the active co-operation of the local banker. Through the help and co-operation of local bankers also Willys-Overland dealers have put their houses in order. They are ready on a sound basis to get their full share of business when motor car sales volume turns forward again and as that time approaches the closer relationship which dealers have established with their banks will add to their profit.

"While it is impossible for any individual or group definitely to forecast when normal business will prevail, I am of the opinion that it will be about three months after manufacturers and merchants improve their schedules for building and buying, and three or four months after those who can buy do buy."

[illegible], Oct. 14.—Demand on the [illegible] [illegible] of the new and [illegible] line [illegible] trucks was so [illegible] following the announcement [illegible] that [illegible] were increased 60 per cent and this figure has been [illegible] several [illegible] since.

This information was made known today by W. S. Graves, director of truck sales, Dodge Brothers Corporation, who at the same time stated that Dodge Brothers truck deliveries to dealers in September greatly exceeded the combined July and August deliveries.

"The enthusiasm of dealers and truck buyers for our new lines [illegible] stated, "caused us to immediately [illegible] increase our schedule for September 60 per cent over the anticipated figure. As the influx of orders increased each day, production schedules were proportionately [illegible]. We are now working on a progressive production schedule with daily and weekly increases in force."

CADILLAC SEES BEST RECORD

Detroit, Oct. 14.—L. P. Fisher, president Cadillac Motor Car Company, today made the statement that September production of Cadillac [illegible] reached a peak [illegible] than August [illegible] [illegible] Cadillac [illegible] for [illegible] 1930. August [illegible] cars and September 2496.

In addition, actual orders on hand for [illegible] in foreign countries will make October by far the biggest month [illegible] year for Cadillac export business.

"The fact that Cadillac has experienced its two biggest months of the year during August and September," stated Fisher, "can be attributed to two reasons, first, the introduction during the first part of September of the new LaSalle V-8 and Cadillac V-8 and, second, increased buying on the part of the public.

"This latter reason is very important at this time and gives us greater confidence in business improvement over the next few months."

Outwitting the Dread "Cheka" of Red Russia!

THE girl at the corner table suddenly turned—her eyes were eloquent with what seemed to him an appeal. "Help me," they seemed to say, "I am in great trouble." Amazing though it was, Fenton had the conviction that he had been sent to give her help.

And then he rushed into fascinating adventure and romance—into the mystery of the disappearance of the famous family jewels of the Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia—and the red hate of the Cheka—the dread secret service of the Soviet. The secret hiding place of the jewels is known to a single person, beautiful Jacqueline Coyle, an English girl. Can she keep her secret—outwit the Cheka—even with the help of John Fenton and Scotland Yard? Can they outwit "The Deacon"—a famous international crook?

It is a three-cornered battle of keen minds until The Deacon, in a gripping climax, turns the tide in favor of the rightful owner—all told in

ANNOUNCEMENT

WASHINGTON MONUMENT

Congressman Frisby wishes to announce that he is working on a plan by which one-half of the post offices in America will be converted into indoor golf courses. He declares his plan has the backing of Postmaster-General Brown, who sees in it a sure way of reducing the postal deficit. Carriers will be permitted to act as caddies and receive tips, which will permit the Government to reduce their wages, this resulting in great economy.

Suggestions for Bankers, Employers, Salaried Men, Everybody

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

[illegible]

Business [illegible] things would [illegible] get [illegible] and [illegible] men [illegible] money [illegible] out and buy goods. We are with [illegible] What are our best minds waiting for? Do they want to see greater distress? Have they any sense of values? If credit is not safe when commodities are selling below production costs, then when is it safe?

[illegible]

Why don't our big industries publicly announce that they do not intend to close down? The insured employes will immediately buy things they need but have been afraid to buy. Further, more if brokers want to get the public in again let them announce that for the time being they will carry debit balances at the call money rate. Many a man would then buy good stocks that would carry themselves if he got the difference between call money and the dividend which now goes to the broker. Our nation's leaders should come out in the open and declare a definite policy.

[illegible]

I'd be a fool to decry short selling for it, of course, fulfills a function. But I do feel that when short selling is threatening the morale of our country which is in a terrible [illegible] unemployment, frightening business men and generally tearing down our economic fabric, it is time it was stopped. [illegible] newspapers are missing a big bet by not publicizing the bears more. Why not give them [illegible] a little free publicity that would [illegible] [illegible] hubbub [illegible] [illegible] purse [illegible] normalcy.

We can probably look forward to increasingly severe competition from Europe, but there is one counterbalancing factor which may be a saving [illegible] in favor of the United States. Our American investments in Latin America, including American loans for necessary constructive public enterprises, may prove to be a determining factor in the future of our trade. In that event 1930 will take its place in the history of our Latin American commerce as a period of what we may call constructive recession during which were laid the foundations for a still greater era in the Latin American movement which may well be expected to surpass the previous crises of 1920 and 1921.

ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

Cigar Consumption Has Gradual Decline

The consumption of large cigars, as indicated by the tax-paid withdrawals from bonded warehouses during the first eight months of 1930 is compared with the corresponding figures for the past nine years. Source: Bureau of Internal Revenue, U. S. Department of the Treasury.

Cigar smoking has declined gradually since 1923, due to the rapidly-increasing popularity of the cigarette which has been far more extensively advertised—to men as well as to women. Thus the cigarette manufacturers have captured a large percentage of the new smokers among the younger generation of men, in addition to all the women smokers. 1930 cigar consumption is 8.5% under 1929, and 15% under the peak year 1923. So business in this industry has not only declined in 1930, but it has been "off" for seven years.

Today's Complete Prices and Dividends

PRICE TREND IS UPWARD IN WALL ST. TRADING

New York, Oct. 15—Although the stock market grew increasingly dull today, quoted values again recovered substantially. Net gains of 1 to 4 points were numerous.

The price movement followed the pattern of the previous session turning downward for a time in the morning, rallying briskly during the middle of the day, faltering for a time in the afternoon, then reaching many of the best levels of the movement just before the close. Total sales were only about 2,300,000 shares.

STEEL AT BEST

U. S. Steel closed at 152⅝, up 3⅞, and the day's highest North American, Loew's, International Telephone, and Johns Manville gained abuot 3 points.

Vanadium gained 4, apparently in short covering on omission of the regular extra dividend of $1, and Allied Chmeical, after losing nearly 6, closed 4 net higher.

Westinghouse gained as much. Stocks gaining about 2 included American Telephone and Republic Steel.

There was no rush of short covering, although brokerage circles had been inclined to look for a rather hasty retreat of the bears, after the scarcity of stocks which developed in the loan crowd after the previous close.

VISIT TO HOOVER.

Wall Street was inclined to place various interpretations on disclosure that the president and vice-president of the Stock Exchange had visited President Hoover over the week-end, but its significance was not disclosed in the action of the market, save possibly in the cautious attitude of the bears.

Wall Street was again inclined to view the day's business news favorably. The sharp upturn in freight car loadings, as reported for the week ended October 4, was particularly cheering, as it marked an abrupt turn in the downward trend of September.

The gain of 22,111 cars over the previous week still left the movement close to the levels of 1922, but in previous weeks it had been the lowest since 1921.

STEEL TRADE NEWS.

The steel trade reviews again indicated further slackening of ingot output in the past week, estimates of the curtailment varying from 1½ to 3 per cent, reducing operations to somewhere between 52 and 5? per cent of capacity.

In view of the unfavorable psychological effects of last week's unsettlement in the speculative markets, however, the reduction was not unexpected, and was without notable effect upon the stock market.

"Steel" reported that producers of finished steel were making the most positive efforts in months to firm prices, in the hope of bringing consumers into the market who have been hesitant to buy because of the unsettled price structure.

Several third quarter earnings statements appeared and failed to bear out many of the gloomy estimates heard during past week. It had been expected that the third quarter, covering the summer months, would be unsatisfactory.

General Electric, however, was able to report 45 cents a share, against 50 cents in the like period of last year.

Chesapeake Corporation actually reported a substantial gain with 98 cents a share, against 8? cents a year ago. Western Union, with net of $2.22 for the quarter, earned its $2 quarterly dividend by a substantial margin.

FOREIGN TRADE GAIN

Foreign trade statistics for September showed a gain in exports of about $20,000,000 over August, the second successive increase. Imports were $9,000,000 over August which was unusual for September had not shown a gain over the previous month since 1926.

Call money held firm at 2 per cent. Greater firmness in the money market at this time was attributed partially to the mid-month settlements.

In foreign exchanges, a better tone in the German mark was regarded favorably presumably indicating that the flight of capital from Berlin had been checked by the higher Reichsbank rate, and the threat of a still higher rate if necessary.

Brazil to Control All Coffee Exports

Brazilian government has assumed control of coffee exports and the Bank of Brazil announced that exports must be accompanied by proof that they have already been sold abroad before they can be shipped.

Bill has been introduced in the Chamber of Deputies providing that only the Bank of Brazil be allowed to operate in the foreign exchange market.

Vacuum Oil Adds to Its Holdings

Vacuum Oil Co. has acquired a controlling interest in Queen City Petroleum Products Co. of Cincinnati, wholesalers of petroleum products and operators of a string of filling stations in southwestern Ohio. Sales of Queen City in 1929 were more than $1,300,000, on which net after federal taxes of $88,899 was realized.

Cotton Higher in New York Market

New York, Oct. 15—Cotton futures today closed steady, 3 to 8 points higher: October, 10.23; December, 10.49; January, 10.64. New contracts—October, 10.27; December, 10.46-49; January, 10.62; March, 10.82-83; May, 11.02-03; July, 11.20-22. Spot quiet; middling, 10.40.

Grains Are Mixed in Chicago Market

Chicago, Oct. 15—Grains closed mixed here today. Wheat finished irregular, ⅛c off to ⅛c up, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅞-1⅞c down, oats unchanged to ⅜c higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 32c.

Central Public Is Seeking Utilities

Central Public Service Corporation is negotiating for acquisition of public utility properties headed by Walter Whetstone and controlled by United Utilities & Service Corporation.

Rubber Barely Steady

New York, Oct. 15—Rubber futures today were barely steady. December, 7.90; March, 8.20; May, 8.30. New contracts: December, 7.90; March, 8.40, and May, 8.40.

"PUT ON THE SPOT"

minously asked the prisoner. The cell door clanged open. Out. Up 42 steel, corrugated steps in his stocking feet. Chimp was swearing now.

"What do you know about the stickup of that cigar store at—" the Captain began in sugary tones.

"I don't know nuttin'," petulantly replied Chimp. He had the unlighted cigarette still dangling from his lips. "I want me shoes—"

"Okay, boys, take him back," and the Captain busied himself with some papers on his desk.

"Say, gimme a light, will youse?" Chip asked. The two detectives began to search their pockets. One of them found a safety match.

"I ain't got nothing to strike it on," he said sadly.

"Strike it on the window pane," said Chimp. The detective went to the window and tried to strike the match. He broke it off right at the head.

"We'll get you a match—later," he said. Then—down 42 steel, corrugated steps and the metallic ridges bit deep into the tender bottoms of Chimp's feet.

"Say, what're youse buzzards tryin' to do to me?" he asked when they had taken him back to his cell. The two dicks appeared surprised.

"Why, Chimp," one of them said in a hurt voice, "we've been better to you than any prisoner I ever saw in this joint. By the way, what do you want for supper?"

Chimp, who had removed his socks and was rubbing his feet, brightened up somewhat.

"Gimme a sirloin steak, rare, wid onions," he began, "and some strong black coffee an' some French fried spuds—and don't forget dem damn matches and dem damn shoes!"

"Okay, Chimp," said the bull, 'right away. You don't have to swear to get service here."

Supper Came

In fifteen minutes the supper came. When it was uncovered Chimp found a small hamburger steak fried to a crisp, mashed potatoes and weak tea. Before he could protest the two bulls were at his cell door.

"The Captain wants to see you, Chimp," they announced in polite tones.

"Where's me shoes?" asked Chimp. "Me matches—me steak—me coffee—what the——"

But the dicks had already opened the cell door and were bowing to Chimp. They took him gently by the arms and led him—up 42 steel, mentallically spiked steps to the Captain's office.

"What year were you born, Chimp?" apologetically asked the Captain, arising on Chimp's entrance.

"I ain't spillin' nothin'!" fairly shouted Chimp.

"Okay, boys, take him back," and the Captain sat down, still smiling. But Chimp pulled away from the dicks.

"I wanna make a beef, Captain!" exclaimed Chimp. The Captain looked surprised, and then nodded. "I ain't bein' treated right. I ain't got no shoes — I ain't got no matches—I ain't got no eats — I ain't got no nothin' what a man should have."

The Captain's brow clouded. He looked menacingly at the two detectives.

"Now, what's this?" he admonished. "I told you I wanted this man treated with best of care. See what he wants and GET IT! I don't want to hear any more complaints from him."

Down 42 steel, razor-edged steps to his cell. When he arrived he saw a man inside calmly eating the last of his supper.

"Say, Lock-up!" called one of the dicks. "How'n h—ll did this fellow get in Chimp's cell—chuck him out."

The lock-up appeared worried and hustled the man out, the latter wiping his lips. When he had gone, Chimp found he had taken his cigarettes, too.

All during the night the detectives appeared at regular intervals, apologetically and solicitously, and marched Chimp up and down 42 hellishly barbed metallic steps in his stocking feet. And every 15 minutes the Captain asked him some outlandish question, courteously and politely, and then scolded and stormed at the detectives for not attending to Chimp's wants.

Gangster Raved

Once Chimp got his cigarette lighted, when the detective stumbled against him and knocked it to the floor, where he stepped on it. When the sun pinked the heavens in the East the little gangster was raving in his cell.

"Captain wants you," said the two dicks gaily.

"What t'hell do youse guys want? What youse want? Gimme a cigarette. Gimme a match. Oh, my poor dogs! Lemme out o' here! What t'hell youse want! I can't climb up. Let him come down. Gimme a match. They dragged him up 42 steel, corrugated, white-hot steps—the American Inquisition was about over.

Chimp was ready to spill it all!

Travel Talks

FRANK C. TURNER, New England manager of the Canadian National Steamships, who gave a travel talk over WLEX at 12:10 p. m. today.

Business Man, Football Coach, Statesman and Aviators Speak on Radio

Four divers talks ranging from sports to aviation will be heard on the radio, three of them coming tonight and one tomorrow.

From Atlantic City, where the American Gas Association is holding their annual convention, Bernard J. Mullaney, president of the Association, will deliver an address of greeting to the radio audience. An extensive musical program consisting of Jessica Dragonette soprano, the Cavaliers, John Seagle, baritone, Leo O'Rourke, tenor, and a concert orchestra will take part. This program will be heard over WEEI at 9 o'clock.

During the celebration of the Virgil anniversary the Italian Ambassador Nobile Giacomo di Martino will talk over a CBS network including WNAC, at 10 o'clock this evening. The remainder of the program includes a talk by Gordon Laing, Dean of the History Dept. of the University of Chicago, and musical offerings by Vittorio Lazzari, baritone with the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

Over WEEI at 10:30 the first of a series of football talks will be heard with Grantland Rice interviewing noted sports authorities. Tonight's speaker will be Knute Rockne, football coach of Notre Dame University. Successive weeks bring Mal Stevens, Yale coach; Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, Army coach; Ring Lardner playright and sports authority and on December 3 Rice will interview a football coach from a college which has triumphed on the gridiron during the past season.

Speeches by the two French transatlantic fliers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, will be heard over the combined net works of the N. B. C. tomorrow at 1:15 p. m. when the Advertising Club tenders them a luncheon at the club's Park ave. headquarters in New York.

Sings Tonight

MARY GARDEN, radiant opera star, who will be heard tonight over WBZA at 9:30 on the Camel Hour.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

This seems to be a pretty good time to tell you folks just a little something about our broadcasting station; or perhaps we should say the Boston Evening American station, which as you probably know is affiliated with station WLEX.

Now although we have sort of an idea that we're putting out some pretty snappy programs, and have heaps of letters from fans as proof that the station is clicking, still we believe there is room for bigger and better programs and we are going to bend every effort in that direction.

In a moment of weakness the managing editor directed us to devote some extra time in helping to put more programs on the air from our station. And we've simply got to make good; we are going to try real hard to, any way.

Now it has occurred to us that you, our subscribers, might have some ideas tucked away in the backs of your minds as to what you would do if you were running a studio; or it may be that you believe you could improve on some of the features which we are already broadcasting. News, sports, styles, etc. And if you are one of those with ideas we'd take it kindly if you'd sit down and drop us a line about it. Pan it if you believe the station deserves it, but write any way.

Elgin Program Heard 8 Times Weekly

Starting today Elgin offers various and sundry entertainment which will be heard no less than eight times a week. The programs, each lasting 15 minutes, will be presented at noon, with the exception of Sunday, when the broadcast comes an hour later. The eighth comes Fridays at 11:00 o'clock. Sundays and both Fridays programs the ARM-CHAIR quartet will be heard. Others on at this time are GODFREY LUDLOW, violinist, and WILLIAM S. RAINEY, stage and radio actor. CLYDE DOERR and his saxophone octet will present the Monday concerts, and Tuesdays MURIEL POLLACK and VEE LAWNHURST, aided by LEW CONRAD will be heard. Wednesday is reserved for PHIL NAPOLEON and his Memphis FIVE, and COUNTESS ALBANI, soprano, holds up the Thursday end of the program. Saturday BREEN and DEROSE, assisted by a novelty orchestra, hold the spotlight. WEEI will be the local outlet for this series, which should provide real competition between the participants. Perhaps a month from now a straw vote will be taken and the results will read:

"Monday leads by 97 votes. Friday is crowding Saturday. Wednesday is in the middle." And so on.

Mary Garden arrived in New York last week after a European tour and promptly upon landing she remarked that she would sing on the "raddio." No doubt Al Smith will be listening to her "raddio" broadcast which happens to fall tonight at 9:30 on the Camel hour, WBZA. Miss Garden will broadcast from behind a huge glass curtain on the stage of the New Amsterdam Roof Theater and microphones will be connected from the theater where an audience will watch her. She will sing "Depuis le Jour," "Comin' Through the Rye," and upon insistance, perhaps one or two more.

Examination, consultation and trial treatment absolutely free to all who call before Oct. 19th. The wonderful power of the X-ray and mercury quartz light treatment is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonders in diseases of every description. No matter what your disease may be remember D. J. Walsh, M. D., will make good the above offer.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. Ellis Butler, 18 Leighton St., Medford, Mass., says:—"I consent to the publication of this testimonial in the hope that it will benefit others who suffer as I did. I had trouble for more than a year; an aching pain in the right side of my abdomen. I thought I had appendicitis. I consulted a local doctor, who told me that I had a touch of rupture. Reading of Dr. Walsh's liberal offer I had him examine and treat me and as a result I have had no pain after the third treatment. Dr. Walsh said that my trouble was a slight attack of appendicitis."

Signed, Ellis Butler.

Capital's Responsibility

Cardinal O'Connell's Indignation

It is but a brief span from Cardinal O'Connell, distinguished prelate, to the son of humble workers in the Lowell mills.

Then, it was the fashion to sweat the employes ten, twelve, even fourteen hours a day. A laborer was hardly worth his hire, in the concept of the greedy taskmasters.

The humanity of Massachusetts did away with much of that. It hammered down the hours of labor. It insisted upon sanitation, instead of the filth and dust which imperilled the workers' health. It insisted upon a reasonable factory code, to reduce the ever-present hazard to life and limb. It insisted upon workmen's compensation, in order that some slight recompense might be derived by the maimed and injured, by the hapless victims of industrial accidents.

Cardinal O'Connell knows all this from experiences intimate to him, not from detached observation. AND WE CAN SHARE HIS GREAT INDIGNATION THAT ALL THE PROGRESS OF THE LAST QUARTER OF A CENTURY IN THE RELATIONS BETWEEN CAPITAL AND LABOR HAS NOT HAMMERED A COMPLETE SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY INTO THE HEADS OF THE CAPITALISTS AND HAS NOT HAMMERED OUT ALL THE GREED AND SELFISHNESS OF SOME OF THEM.

Cardinal O'Connell truly says that the obligation to provide relief from unemployment lies very largely, if not entirely, in the hands of the financiers and employers. It was not the workingman, it was the financiers and employers who received the extraordinary profits from the extraordinary period of prosperity. It was they who received the billions of profits through the issuance of stock dividends. It was they who pyramided and multiplied their investments from which they collected dividends, gratuities and other forms of income undreamed in all the past history of finance. It was they who should have accepted a moral if not a legal covenant to provide continuous work at good and permanent wages to every worker who entered their employ.

The ingenuity of the American workman is epic. But in this crisis his courage and his hardihood are worthy of the finest testimonial. Under the urge of this newspaper and under the inspiration of their own fellow-feeling they have gone into the market, spending a few more dollars a week in order that the period of renewed prosperity might be hastened and in order that employment might be provided for their fellow man in less fortunate circumstances.

But for every dollar they spend, millions could be afforded by the financial and employing interests who profited so richly in the past and who have manifested such a dismal sense of irresponsibility in the present. The people have demonstrated a remarkable spirit of teamwork. If the financiers will now take hold and give evidence of some of the ability of leadership which they claim to possess, the times will swing to better and brighter days for all.

The Diamond Case

Another Portent

Guns bark again in a New York hotel room, as they barked two years ago when Arnold Rothstein was murdered. "Legs" Diamond, once a Rothstein bodyguard, "gets his"—or part of it. And, as usual, deep mystery surrounds the shooting.

Diamond is said to have been trying to "muscle in" to the Brooklyn beer racket. He also had been summoned as a witness in the Ewald case. There are plenty of motives for the crime, but Diamond himself refuses to talk. The etiquette of gangdom forbids that, and Diamond is a good gangster.

Taken by itself, the shooting is unimportant. Diamond has been arrested twenty-five times since 1914, and even in New York that is considered an excessive number. This country could, and cheerfully would, struggle along without him.

What is important is that gangsterism is on the increase, is more brazen-faced than ever, and is more closely affiliated with the courts and the Government than it has been at any previous time in the prohibition era.

More and more police and courts bow to it as to a super-government. It holds the balance of power and is intrenched so firmly and financed so richly that the ordinary machinery of law and order breaks down before it.

As long as we leave the drink traffic in its hands it will continue to rule. It derives its funds from that traffic and can afford to buy immunity from the public servants that it keeps in its pocket. And until that source of revenue is closed to it it will extend and tighten its grip.

Diamond alone, dead or alive, is rather less than nobody. As the latest of a long series of signs and portents that show where this nation is heading, however, he is cause for profound and searching thought.

Bishop Sherrill

He Will Make History.

The consecration of the Rev. Dr. Henry K. Sherrill as the ninth bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts is an event of great importance in the history of the diocese.

He is the youngest man ever elected to that high position. His growth as a clergyman has been upon his merits. He began in a humble way his ministry in this state. He studied conditions as well as human nature. He knew from the very beginning of his ministry how to make people useful.

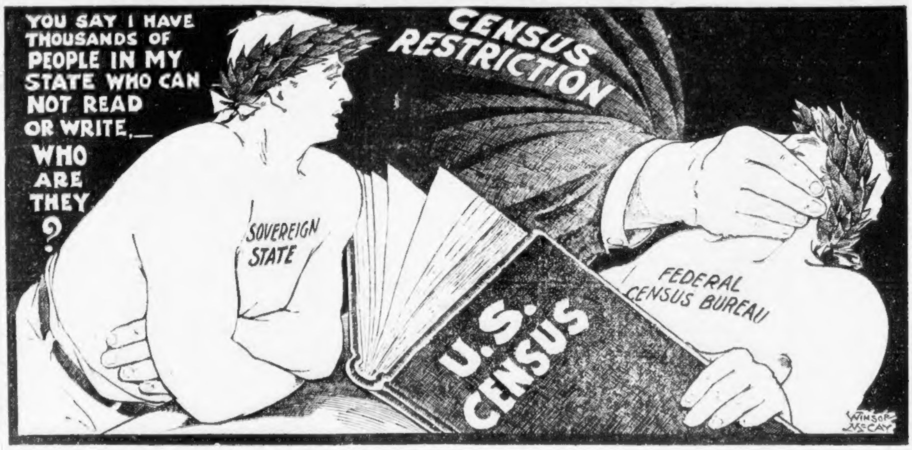
He knows how to use to great advantage the gifts of others. Bishop Sherrill is popular with every class. He went into the World War and made himself popular with the men in the ranks as well as with generals.

He will be a modern bishop. He will be a bishop for all. He will show Christian feelings for all denominations. He will be a new type of bishop that the Episcopal Church will honor more as time advances. Young though he is, he has partaken of the wisdom that will win laurels each year for his diocese and for himself.

Congratulations to Him

The head of the house of Higginson, famed in finance, art and letters, takes unto himself a workgirl for his bride. There will be the usual arching of the eyebrows and titters of astonishment in the silly social set. That is unimportant. The man is sensible. He will weld sturdiness and simple virtue to his progeny. That IS important.

GIVE STATES THE FACTS



YOU SAY I HAVE THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE IN MY STATE WHO CAN NOT READ OR WRITE,— WHO ARE THEY ?
CENSUS RESTRICTION
SOVEREIGN STATE
FEDERAL CENSUS BUREAU
U.S. CENSUS
WINSOR McCAY

Of "the foes of our own household," Illiteracy is one of the most insidious with which the American people have to contend today.

It was confidently expected that the Federal Census Bureau, which recently completed the national census, would soon furnish detailed information regarding Illiteracy to the proper state officials for confidential use in their educational work.

But congressional action appears to be essential before this assistance can be given. According to a recent interpretation by the attorney-general of the United States, the law under which the last census was taken forbids the federal government to give to any state official, EVEN FOR CONFIDENTIAL USE, in campaigns to reduce Illiteracy, any information regarding the whereabouts of illiterates.

As soon as Congress convenes, adoption of a resolution will be urged to permit all the data about Illiteracy obtained in the recent census to be turned over to the proper state officials for confidential use in their educational work.

Such a resolution should be supported by the senators and representatives in Congress from every state in the union, for, as they well know, the states hold the right of the line in the warfare against Illiteracy because THEY control Education.

But the states will be compelled to go blindfolded into battle against this enemy until the federal government is given authority to open their eyes and show them who and where the illiterate millions are.

It is just as much the DUTY of the federal government to PROMOTE Education as it is the RIGHT of the several states to CONTROL it. Aiding them in their efforts to eradicate Illiteracy by giving them the information essential to that end would be federal assistance of an effective sort in the promotion of Education.

And when Education is placed on an equality with Agriculture, Commerce and Labor by the federal government, and a Secretary of Education sits in the Cabinet of the President, all information in regard to Education that the federal government can obtain will be promptly put at the disposal of every state in the union.

The sooner a Secretary of Education takes his place in the official family of the President, the sooner will the American people win their warfare against Illiteracy and other and no less insidious "foes of our own household."

Listen, World!—Doubting

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Can You Be Master of Your Fate?

YOU KNOW this verse. You've carried it for years, perhaps, thrilling to its brave swing.

"It matters not how strait the gate,
"How charged with punishments the scroll,
"I am the master of my fate;
"I am the captain of my soul."

A great and gallant verse, and you want to believe it. Yet, as the years go on, you find yourself doubting. Can a man really be master of his fate? Yes, he can . . . but first he must understand just what mastery means.

Elsie Robinson

It does NOT mean that you can do anything or be anything you wish merely by setting your mind upon it. You have certain equipment wherewith to face life. It is good equipment. You can go far with it. But you can't do everything or anything. Each nature has its limitations. Lincoln was a clever and indomitable man, but he never, by any chance, could have become a toe dancer. It's as silly for most of us to struggle to be great artists, actors, writers or captains of industry as it would have been for Lincoln to struggle to be a toe dancer.

If you wish to be master of your fate, it's as necessary to recognize the things you can't be as to fight for the things you can be. Otherwise you're going to waste precious time and voltage.

And you're not only limited by your own nature—you are also bound by circumstance. No matter how carefully you may plot your life, circumstances come along and mess up your program. These are things in life over which wou have no control. It is hard for a spunky American to acknowledge this, but sooner or later you must face the fact.

Yet, in spite of these handicaps, you can be master of your fate. You cannot always make life into what you wish, but you can take it as you wish. And it's the taking that counts, for we live in our feelings. Our happiness does not depend on the things that happen to us or the things we accumulate or achieve—it depends on our own inner attitude toward these things.

A man may have a sick or crippled body, he may have a limited mind, he may be bound by poverty and the heaviest responsibility, yet he can by his own attitude surmount any limitation of body or handicap of position. Outwardly, he may seem poor, unfit and obscure, but inwardly he may experience as much beauty as a Michael Angelo, as much power as a Mussolini, as much drama as a Barrymore, as much adventure as a Byrd.

Stevenson's body was riddled with tuberculosis but his soul fared far into gorgeous adventure. Milton's eyes were sealed in blindness but the mysteries of heaven and hell unrolled before him in the darkness. Socrates was a shackled slave but the richest, proudest and most powerful. Greeks were not as free as he, in his wisdom. Life for these men was rich and free not because they had exceptional talent. Many have exceptional talent yet lead frustrated lives. Life, for them, was rich and free because they had learned that a man CAN be captain of his soul and can master any fate that can attack him.

Their names are famous, but obscure souls have done as much. There are men and women working with you in the same office who have learned the same secret. Their wages are as low as yours, their condition as exasperating, their work as tiresome, yet there's a glow in them. They have the strangle hold on fate.

BEAUTY AND POWER, DRAMA AND ADVENTURE, ARE WITHIN THE REACH OF EVERY MAN. BUT HE MUST REACH FOR THEM WITHIN HIMSELF, FOR THERE ALONE, MAY THEY BE FOUND.

Words of the Wise Men

Whatever the number of a man's friends, there will be times in his life when he has one too few, but if he has only one enemy, he is lucky indeed if he has not one too many. —Bulwer-Lytton.

Laws, like houses, lean on one another. —Burke.

Though the sun scorches us sometimes, and gives us the headache, we do not refuse to acknowledge that we stand in need of his warmth. —De Mornay.

Morality was made for man, and not man for morality.—Zangwill.

Fame comes only when deserved, and then is as inevitable as destiny, for it is destiny. —Longfellow.

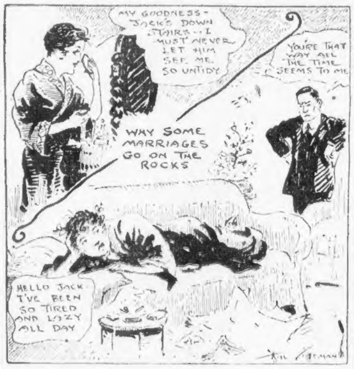
Think It Over

DRAWN BY HAL COFFMAN



MY GOODNESS— JACK'S DOWN STAIRS— I MUST NEVER LET HIM SEE ME SO UNTIDY
YOU'RE THAT WAY ALL THE TIME SEEMS TO ME
WHY SOME MARRIAGES GO ON THE ROCKS
HELLO JACK I'VE BEEN SO TIRED AND LAZY ALL DAY
HAL COFFMAN

Before marriage, every girl tries to look her best for her intended husband. When Jack calls up or Bill rings the doorbell, she gets out the powder-puff and dashes for the mirror like a hook and ladder company answering a six-alarm fire.

Yet, AFTER marriage, some girls think that "anything goes." Sloppy and untidy themselves, they leave the kitchen sink full of dirty dishes, let dust gather on the furniture, strew clothes over the chairs.

No wonder such marriages go on the rocks. Husbands are not always as dumb as you might think. They remember the girl they used to know, and compare her with the wife that she has turned out to be.

Personal tidiness and a neat, cheerful home take work. But even a few minutes' work a day makes a wonderful difference, keeps many a couple out of the divorce court.

Russian Prisons

Not all is good in Russia, but certainly not all can be bad. The Russian penal system now requires that prisoners shall be trained mentally and physically. Gymnasia are installed, also classrooms in the prisons, where even higher mathematics is taught the more advanced minds. Boston, birthplace of American free education and home of the most humane penal system which this Continent knows, can well interest itself in Russia's experiment. Better that prisons be experimental stations, with hope for the confined, than living graveyards, where hope and honor are to be interred.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—Some 500 plastic surgeons in New York, and at least a dozen private home sanitariums attend to the growing demand of those who want noses bobbed, ears pruned and sagging cheeks ballooned. Not all are theatrical folk aching for a whirl at Hollywood. A large number are merely beauty mad.

In New York and Hollywood—the plastic surgery centers—some 4000 faces have been reconstructed since the advent of movies and talkies. Boys and girls who fail in screen tests and have the price usually romp to a face fixer to take a flyer in surgical revamping.

Strides have been made in plastic surgery as a result of wartime experimentations, but it remains a dangerous expedient. Surgeons with big names have faced enormous suits for damages by those disfigured. Many men wear long beards and women heavy veils as a penalty for bungling.

Despite the successful operations, the conscientious surgeon admits there is always an element of danger. Fannie Brice's nose bob was a success and permitted her further to continue on the screen. Belle Baker, a prime vaudeville favorite, refused to submit to the knife.

Screen luminaries submitting to plastic surgery are Bebe Daniels, Mollie O'Day, Ruth Taylor and Vivienne Segal. Among the men are "It is Me, Georgie"—and won't someone please tell him?—Price and Harry Richman. Due to mighty sockings Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier had their bridges propped up.

Valentino was the first screen hero to have his ears trimmed. It was a minor difficulty, but until performed he was not permitted to show himself full face. Nearly all screen idols who are past 35 have had face hoists, an operation which has become more certain in results than most.

* * *

New York society women travel chiefly to Paris for such operations. In this isolation they are able to avoid tabloid publicity.

* * *

The newest of the young temperamental eccentrics of the town to be publicized is Werner Janssen, son of a cafe keeper. Beside writing music for several plays, he captured a Rome Fellowship for a composition. He accepts dinner engagements and shows up next evening, sails for long stays in Europe, hurries back on the same boat and all that. Dear dear!

It was interesting to watch a six-foot bouncer handle a disturbing drunk in a restaurant last night. The disturber roamed from table to table, wearing a hat check boy's tambourine cap. He chucked strange ladies under the chin and heckled floor performers. The bouncer stood for a volley of guttery epithets while patiently jockeying the drunk to an exit. Then, after a swift smack, he drop-kicked him across the sidewalk.

"There goes Yale for three yards!" cried a passing taxi driver.

The bouncer today, due to highly-kippered hooch, must be more handy than ever with his dukes. He is now called an "assistant manager." A number are paid $100 a week. Their problem is to coax annoyers outside. What happens then forestalls suits for damages against the management.

"Pan" Duffy was a bouncer in the days of McGuirk's Suicide Hall, whither forlorn ladies drifted to quaff acid in their beer. Duffy, patient and amiable, would always wait to be hit. Then he would pound his victim's head on the floor, bite out a chunk of ear and spit it in his face. In 12 years of bouncing he mangled nine ears.

In the Bowery dump one Saturday night with, if memory serves, Francis Albertanti, the sport writer, "Eat 'Em Up" Jack McManus rolled in aflame with Bowery "smoke" and surly as a sore-footed bear. His gaze fell on me—of all people! "That mug of yours," he rumbled, "needs a good smear so you won't look so prissy." I don't know how I got there, but my next lucid interval took place in my hotel room—very twittery and clown white.

"Get that Gallipolis complex out of your head," counsels F. D. A. "You are now in New York and the year is 1930."

That gritty noise is my face tuning up for an old-fashioned wince.
